Prologue

In 2004, Michael Townley, Trevor Philips and Brad Snider robs a Bobcat Security cash storage facility in Ludendorff. After locking several hostages in a room, Trevor wires an explosive to the vault doors, and Michael detonates them via his phone. Michael and Trevor enter the vault and steal just under $180,000. As the crew make their escape, Michael is held at gunpoint by a security guard, who also removes the mask from his head. Michael advises the guard to forget what he saw and leave, but Trevor shoots him in the head.

The trio blow open another door and leave the building, but are already swarmed by the local law enforcement. A massive gunfight erupts, forcing the crew to fend off the oncoming police before making their escape. The crew reach their getaway vehicle and are driven away, but they are pursued by more police vehicles, and their hired getaway driver is shot in the head. Michael pushes his body out of the door and grabs the wheel, crashing one of their pursuer's car into a roadside tree. The crew continues their journey towards the helicopter awaiting for them, but are forced to divert their course after encountering a police roadblock. They then speed over the train tracks and attempt to beat the train, but aren't quick enough and the rear end of the vehicle is hit by an oncoming train, causing them to lose control and spin out into a nearby tree. The vehicle is struck in the snow, and the engine stops working. The trio survive, and Trevor suggests an alternative route to the getaway chopper, but Michael insists that they stick to the original plan. The crew then exits and has to walk to the chopper to escape.

Gener Guzman

The crew then continues on foot through the town, but realize the chopper is nowhere to be seen. Meanwhile, Agent Dave Norton, hiding around a corner, shoots Brad with a Sniper Rifle, killing him. Dave fires again, this time at Michael, who falls to the ground. He behaves as if he is injured, though he is pretending and has no visible injuries. Trevor is forced to take out the oncoming police officers alone, refusing to abandon his crew, but Michael persuades Trevor to go on without him. After briefly taking a nearby woman hostage, Trevor escapes into the snowy fields while still being pursued by armed police.

Some time later, at a local cemetery, a funeral for Michael Townley is held. Dave Norton, the agent who "shot" him, supervises the proceedings, whilst Michael himself observes from a distance and flicks away his cigarette.

Chapter 1

Nine years after the failing the heist in North Yankton, Michael De Santa is having a conversation with his therapist, Dr. Isiah Friedlander. He is growing increasingly unhappy at the fact that he is going through a midlife crisis because of things he did since 2004, beginning to release a small amount of stress by shouting at Dr. Friedlander that the perfect life he dreamt of is disjointed, thus ending their brief session for the day.

Michael heads outside and sits on a bench in Vespucci Beach. This brings him into a chance to encounter Lamar Davis and Franklin Clinton when they pass by, who he reluctantly redirects to their repossession location. Franklin anxiously questions Lamar's motives for proceeding with the repossession, as he doesn't see it as legitimate work. They arrive at the property and after Franklin decides which vehicle he would like to acquire, he accompanies Lamar on a high-speed chase throughout different parts of Los Santos. For Franklin, this is the only day where he works on weekends because he begins repossession on Saturday.

Franklin and Lamar end their chase at the Union Depository car park. As the men exchange repartee with each other, they hear the LSPD sirens, which causes them to drive away in different directions to lose the unwanted police attention. Franklin then barely escapes the arrest and now has to escape. He drives around Los Santos. Once the wanted level is dealt with, Franklin meets Lamar at the back of the Premium Deluxe Motorsport dealership, where they witness their boss and owner of the car dealership, Simeon Yetarian, berating a young man,

Gener Guzman

Jimmy De Santa, for making racist comments about him to scam him into buying a very expensive BeeJay XL, something that Lamar himself points out to Franklin.

Both Lamar and Franklin leave the dealership and head to Franklin's house, where Lamar mocks Franklin's appearance after he's been denied access to Franklin's home. Franklin walks around the house and meets his aunt, Denise Clinton.

Franklin leaves his house and drives his Buffalo to Davis Mega Mall. He looks for a vehicle to steal and chooses a minivan. The minivan is unlocked, so Franklin just takes the minivan and parks it in the garage at his house. Later, Franklin returns to the mall by taxi for $8 and finds out that the Buffalo is gone. However, the Buffalo is not stolen, but respawned back to Franklin's house. Meanwhile, Franklin heads to the barber shop across Carson Ave and gets a haircut for $20 since Lamar requested Franklin to do so. By the time the haircut is done, Franklin has exactly $300 and heads back home. On the way home, he encounters Children of the Mountain Fellowship which is a temple of worship. Every Sunday, Franklin would go to the temple in which he calls it a "church". When Franklin gets back home, he takes a shower for an hour, changes his clothes, and goes back to sleep.

Franklin wakes up and checks his phone. The phone says that today is Sunday, so Franklin plans to go to church. He looks up the internet to check the times and learns that the worship times are 10:00, 12:00, and 18:00. Before going to church, he takes a little walk around the neighborhood. Then, he goes to church. After going to church, he walks again until lunch time. When it is lunch time, he eats at the Cluckin Bell stand at the west end of Carson Ave in Strawberry. After lunch, he explores the rest of South Los Santos until it is time to go to sleep. Once sunset happens, Franklin goes back home, eats dinner, and goes to sleep.

Grand Theft Auto V

Franklin wakes up again, and today is Monday. This is the first full work week. Franklin would work and do missions for most of the day Monday-Friday. On weekends, Franklin would relax, explore Los Santos, and on Sundays, go to church. After waking up, Franklin normally eats breakfast and goes to the bathroom. He goes to the bathroom to wash hands and brush teeth. After the bathroom, he changes his clothes or keeps the same clothes. As Franklin progresses his life experience, he would gain enough clothes to change clothes everyday and laundry every two weeks on Saturdays. After changing clothes, he gets in his car and drives to work if it is a work day. On weekends, he would explore his surroundings instead.

After following all of the steps to get ready for work, Franklin heads to the car dealership in Downtown Los Santos. He and his friend Lamar are tasked by Simeon to recover a motorbike sold to a gang member who refused to pay. The two make their way to a desolate back alley right next door to Vespucci Beach where Jimenez lives, and search for the bike in a few lockup garages before Lamar starts a gunfight with the owner's friends, the Vagos.

A car enters the compound and crashes, leaking fuel, prompting Franklin to shoot the spillage, setting the vehicle ablaze. Jimenez escapes on the bike, and Franklin and Lamar follow him in pursuit. After Franklin kills him, the duo splits up, Franklin takes the bike and meets with Lamar at the Car Wash in Innocence Boulevard, Strawberry. But in the words of Franklin "You can't repo the assets of a dead man" - so Lamar keeps the bike for himself, knowing that the repossession is now meaningless, only for the bike to become one of Franklin's personal vehicles afterwards. In other words, the new bike is Franklin's second personal vehicle.

Following the mission, Lamar finds out that Stretch is being released from prison and notifies Franklin of that. Franklin enjoys his lunch and notices that his work hours are cut by half. As a result, he treats the other half of the day like a weekend. The reason for this is because Franklin and Lamar worked during the day last Saturday, and Franklin needs a rest.

Normally after a full-day of work, Franklin drives back home through rush hour. Upon arriving at home, he would eat his dinner. His dinner is either a burger or chicken and rice with a banana. After dinner, he takes a shower and changes clothes. However, Franklin would change clothes most frequently before sleeping instead of after waking up. After changing clothes, he waits to go to sleep at 20:00. While waiting, he watches TV before sleeping.

Franklin wakes up the next day and gets ready. He returns to the car dealership for work again. Simeon is seen arranging a deal with Mr. Kenneth in the front parking lot right outside his dealership. Simeon orders Franklin to steal a yellow Karin BeeJay XL that Jimmy De Santa bought from him from Michael's mansion. Before arriving at the house, Simeon calls Franklin, showing his anger after failing to deliver the Bagger from the previous mission. Upon arriving, Franklin knocks out the gardener and proceeds to sneak into Michael's home. Franklin navigates the house in a stealthy manner to avoid alerting its residents, passing through the kitchen, and entering the garage to steal the car. Franklin manages to successfully steal the car and drives away from Michael's home back to the dealership. Suddenly Michael, who was hidden in the truck's backseat, points a gun at Franklin's head and threatens him, asking him who he is working for and ordering him to continue driving back towards the dealership. Franklin stops near the dealership, and Michael then orders him to drive through the dealership window. After crashing into the dealership, Michael quickly gives Franklin some cash and tells him to leave the scene. Simeon starts to fight against Michael since Michael is the one who makes Franklin break into the dealership window and ruin Simeon's business. However, Michael beats Simeon without getting hurt. After sufficiently beating Simeon enough, he orders Simeon to leave his son alone and then threatens him not to cross him again before leaving the scene.

Franklin walks back home and encounters Tonya. Tonya and her boyfriend, JB, are old friends of Franklin's. The couple run a towing service, but it is on the verge of being taken away from them. When Franklin asks about JB, Tonya is honest about the fact that he's off smoking crack. She pleads with Franklin to help them out by filling in for JB.

Franklin balks initially, but Tonya tries to guilt him into it by chiding him for not helping his cousin. After Franklin explains that they are not cousins, he reluctantly agrees to help. They both then head to the Davis Sheriff Impound to get JB's tow truck.

Franklin approaches Tonya who begins pleading for Franklin to help her and JB out by towing some cars for JB while he's off smoking crack. He drives Tonya to the impound lot on the corner of Innocence and Roy Lowenstein Boulevards next to the Davis Sheriff/Police Station. After arriving, he climbs into the tow truck and waits for Tonya to get in the passenger seat.

After Tonya gets on the passenger seat, Franklin drives the truck through an exit gate and a blue dot will appear on the map signifying the location of the abandoned car he must tow. The car is parked on San Andreas Boulevard just in front of Legion Square.

Franklin drives to the car and positions the tow truck in front of the vehicle, backing into it. He lowers the tow hitch by holding down on the L stick, and when it is close enough to the vehicle it will auto-attach. He pushes up on the L-stick to raise the hitched car.

Franklin drives carefully back to the impound lot. Once back at the impound lot, he drives into the gate and pulls the car all the way into the red striped No Parking zone. Once the car is in the zone, he holds down on the L-stick to lower the vehicle and holds right on the D-pad to unhitch the car which ends the mission for the rest of the day. Franklin then drives back to his house and relaxes for the rest of the day. Last, he goes to sleep for the night.

Meanwhile, Michael goes home. For Michael, his evening behavior is similar to Franklin's with a few exceptions. When Michael sleeps, he gets six hours of sleep instead of eight hours. He usually sleeps between 21:00 and 3:00.

After Michael wakes up, he gets ready similar to Franklin's way of getting ready. This time, he stays at home until late morning. In the late morning, Amanda and Tracey argue over whether Tracey can have a male friend stay the night. Michael retreats out to the pool with a drink and listens to music, only to be interrupted by Franklin.

Franklin and Michael talk. Franklin is interested in learning from Michael's criminal experience, but Michael claims that he is retired and encourages Franklin to go to college, so he can "rip off people and get paid to do it." Still, Michael takes an interest in Franklin and offers to buy him a beer at a nearby bar. Franklin accepts. This will be the first "date" with the two. The two start to leave but are interrupted when Michael gets a call from his son, Jimmy; to which Jimmy informs Michael that he tried to sell Michael's yacht, without his father's permission. The buyers steal the boat instead, leaving Jimmy to cower and hide in the boat's bathroom as the thieves drive it on a trailer down the Great Ocean Highway.

Michael and Franklin take Amanda's Sentinel and head to Pacific Bluffs. Along the way, Michael states that while he's retired, if Franklin sufficiently impresses him on this outing, Michael might teach Franklin a thing or two. They reach the Great Ocean Highway and they spot Michael's yacht flying by, pulled by a Phantom. The two give chase as the thieves follow the Del Perro Freeway. The Phantom sometimes crashes nearby traffic. Later, the chase heads south on

La Puerta Freeway and ends after passing Los Santos International Airport. The purpose of the chase is to get back the boat from the stolen truck and stop the truck.

To save Jimmy, Franklin climbs onto the car hood and jumps on the yacht and deals with the goons on the stern before retrieving Michael's son. However, Jimmy gets hit by the boat's boom and ends up dangling over the freeway while holding on to the boom. Michael pulls up close and Jimmy drops into the Sentinel. Michael then gets near enough to the boat so that Franklin can jump to safety. This happens near the end of the chase.

Michael wants to pursue the thieves but the engine of the Sentinel begins to break down, due to a goon shooting it. The goons, unfortunately, get away, leaving Michael crestfallen. The three drive to Los Santos Customs. Michael takes a taxi while Franklin and Jimmy get the Sentinel repaired. Following that, Franklin drives Jimmy home, and the two agree to hang out at some times. Franklin steals a parked car and heads back home for the day.

After the night passes, Franklin overhears his aunt and her friend going out for a jog. Soon after Lamar and Chop show up, Lamar tells Franklin to come along to "pick up some shit from around the corner". Franklin asks why they cannot drive instead, but Lamar insists that they walk as it is not far. The three get in Lamar's van parked at the destination, and Lamar tells Franklin to drive to Vinewood Boulevard.

After they reach their destination, they walk into an alley, where they find D chatting with a woman. Before being spotted, Franklin and Lamar both cover their faces with green bandanas. D notices them and a hostile conversation initiates. Lamar finally pulls out his pistol and aims it at D, who responds by taking off on his motorcycle, almost hitting the two in the process and also killing them instantly.

Gener Guzman

Franklin and Lamar quickly get back into Lamar's van and start chasing after D. Franklin is doubtful about catching up with the speeding motorcyclist. After chasing through the Simmet Alley, D is hit by a bus, throwing him off the bike. He then runs off through a city bus terminal. Franklin and Chop jump out the van and the chase ensues on foot.

The chase continues into a railyard. Franklin loses the trail, and Chop tries to sniff out D. During the search, Chop suddenly runs off across a nearby street, after having spotted another (male) dog of the same size. Chop begins humping the other dog, much to Franklin's chagrin. Eventually, the two continue their search and find D hiding inside a boxcar after two times of opening a boxcar without D. D jumps out and runs off again, but Franklin sends Chop after him. After a short chase Chop manages to bite D, forcing him to the ground.

Franklin apprehends D and Lamar arrives with the van. After being forced into the van, D recognizes Lamar by his voice, the back of his head and the van's license plate reading his own name. Franklin takes the driver's seat and drives back towards Lamar's house. During the ride, there is a brief conversation about D remembering Lamar and Franklin from when they were younger, and Lamar makes a ransom call to the Ballas from his cell phone and demands $40,000 for D. Franklin tells Lamar that the Ballas and the LSPD will be able to trace the cell phone and will know where they are now. Franklin tosses the phone out of the van and forces Lamar to let D go. Franklin then drives to the BJ Smith Recreation Center to drop off Lamar and Chop.

Later, Lamar will call Franklin letting him know that Chop will stay at Franklin's house. Franklin steals another car and heads back home before going to sleep.

Franklin wakes up the next day and gets ready for work. His work is located at Michael's house, so he drives there. Meanwhile, Michael comes home from his night activity, calling for his wife Amanda. He steps out of the house and becomes suspicious when he notices two tennis rackets by the door. He confronts Amanda when he walks to his room and he finds that she is cheating on him with her tennis coach, Kyle Chavis. Kyle attempts to reason with Michael, but he is too furious, so the coach jumps out of the window. Soon, Franklin arrives and helps Michael track down the tennis coach while Amanda cleans the scene.

The two leave in a "borrowed" McGill-Olsen Bison and chase Kyle on the road, losing him briefly only to find his car outside of a nearby house. Michael threatens the tennis coach as he is hiding on the deck. Franklin then ties the truck's cable wire winch onto the deck's support beams. Michael and Franklin get inside the truck and Michael accelerates, causing the support beam to buckle and the entire house to collapse and slide down the cliff.

As they drive away, Kyle calls Michael on his cellphone and warns him that the mansion they destroyed wasn't his; it was the home of a powerful gangster's mistress (Madrado), and tells Michael that he will send goons to kill them.

Franklin and Michael manage to hold them off and make it back to Michael's mansion, but are cornered by Martin Madrazo and his goons. Madrazo has Franklin tell Michael of his past, for he beats Michael with a baseball bat and demands that he should pay for the damages he has caused. Michael agrees while Martin tells him that it will be over millions of dollars to pay and that they will stay in a hotel for now, before he leaves. With no choice, Michael proclaims his return to the life of crime and leaves the scene.

A few hours later after agreeing to pay Madrazo, Michael is sitting near Rockford Mall, talking to Lester on the phone. Lester says that he lives in Los Santos in Murrieta Heights and tells Michael to meet at his house later this week. Later, Dr. Friedlander calls Michael, asking

Michael if he needs to meet him at his clinic. Michael agrees to go today. He heads to the doctor's clinic by Del Perro Beach. He walks in and meets the doctor.

Michael talks about the incident where he pulled Martin Madrazo's house off the Vinewood Hills, saying that he is back in the "life" now that he needs to make a lot of money quickly. Dr. Friedlander responds by claiming that Michael "feels a need to explain every decision" he makes, and that he needs to take more responsibility for his actions.

Friedlander asks Michael if he has had any other 'violent' urges. Michael says that he feels like "two different people" and that he doesn't like either of them. He also says that he "hurts other people without thinking" and then "feels bad" about it, calling himself a "sick hypocritical fuck". Friedlander offers some advice that the player can accept or reject. Michael both makes mistakes in his life, and his goal is to live a "happy" life.

After Michael responds, Friedlander asks Michael about his sexual behaviour, and Michael's response will again depend on the player's actions. Because Michael did not sleep with prostitutes or strippers (Because he has a wife), Michael says that he has "thoughts" but didn't have any problems, or that he has been a "good boy" and didn't have any problems at all.

The session continues until Michael has a "breakthrough", before being interrupted by Friedlander, who claims their session time has expired. Following the session, Michael pays Friedlander $500 and leaves the clinic. He then heads back home.

Meanwhile, Franklin makes his way to Ammu-Nation in Downtown to learn how to use guns properly. He gets enrolled in shooting school, so he learns by using the shooting range. He uses his pistol and practices shooting to increase accuracy. He shoots the targets during the lesson from the stationary ones to the moving ones. After shooting, he leaves.

By the time Franklin is done practicing shooting guns, Michael is home. He watches TV and drinks whiskey every few minutes. When the time hits near 21:00, he goes back to sleep.

On weekends, Michael normally explores his surroundings and goes to either Rockford Hills Church or Hill Valley Church on Sundays. Sometimes, he hangs out with his friends or family while exploring Los Santos. Every weekend, he explores different areas of Los Santos especially the north and west corridor of the city since his house is located near the northwest.

For this weekend, Michael explores his house to navigate home better and explores almost all of Rockford Hills, including church on Sunday. On Saturday, he decides to get one dance from Vanilla Unicorn and encounters Patrick McReary after the private dance.

At his mansion in Rockford Hills on Monday, Michael is eating from a bowl of potato chips and is trying to watch a movie when his son Jimmy begins making too much noise upstairs. After trying to turn his TV up, Michael soon runs up to Jimmy's room and tells him to keep it down. After being told rather rudely to go away, Michael grabs one of Jimmy's chairs and smashes Jimmy's TV. The two yell at each other, but finally Michael relents and states that he just wants to spend time with his son. Jimmy reluctantly agrees to go with his dad.

The two drive to Vespucci Beach where they rent bicycles at Mr. Spoke Bike Rental and race to Pleasure Pier. There the two chat, which again turns into an argument. To distract his father, Jimmy tells Michael that Tracey also causes trouble; in fact, at the very moment, she is on a boat with famous people, trying to get on TV. Michael takes off his shirt and shoes, jumps off the pier and swims to the boat. Upon getting to the boat, he sees Tracey dancing with various men. Michael confronts his daughter, and the men she is with, eventually throwing a stereo into the ocean and tells his daughter to come with him. They steal a Seashark and speed off, but Freddy Slade, the boat's owner, and some of his friends, chase after Tracey and Michael and try to shoot them. After losing their pursuers, Tracey and Michael land the Seashark near where Michael left Jimmy. Tracey starts to attack Jimmy, but he defends himself by blaming their father. They both soon leave in a taxi, and Michael stays to smoke.

After Michael smokes, he walks to the nearest transit station and buys a subway ticket. He rides the subway to Rockford Hills and walks home. After walking home, he relaxes by using the computer, watching TV, and drinking. After all of that, Michael goes to sleep.

Michael wakes up and gets ready. With him now owing $2,500,000 to Martin Madrazo for his mistress' house, he visits the home of an old friend named Lester Crest. After being let in, the two briefly catch up before Lester receives an alert about Lifeinvader founder Jay Norris. He throws Michael a backpack containing an explosive device, and asks him to buy some "youthful" clothing at the SubUrban on Power Street. After buying clothes, Lester gives him instructions to infiltrate the Lifeinvader Office and plant the device in their latest prototype phone.

Michael drives from the clothing store to the Lifeinvader office along Power Street and Del Perro Boulevard. Once at the Lifeinvader offices, he waits at the back entrance as an employee walks outside for his cigarette break and lets him in. He mistakes Michael for a tech support agent and asks Michael to remove a number of pornography pop-ups from his computer and install some anti-virus software as fast as possible. After this is done, Michael finds the prototype, plants the explosive on the Lifeinvader phone, and leaves.

Lester then instructs Michael to head home and watch Norris reveal the prototype on TV. When Michael gets home, he kicks Tracey, who is watching Fame or Shame, out of the living room, and switches over to Weazel News to watch the event broadcast live. Waiting until Norris reveals the phone, Michael dials the number. Once Norris answers, confused at the unexpected call, the phone explodes and kills him instantly as the crowd flees in horror, and an official waves to the camera crew to make an emergency broadcast ending.

Lester calls, saying the incident has generated a huge profit for him on the stock market, and agrees to help Michael. He also sends a text with a link to the stock market for Michael to later browse at his leisure somewhere in the future.

Meanwhile, Franklin heads his way back home and has a night shift. Because of the night shift, he decides to head back home and sleep early to prepare for work.

After waking up, Franklin meets Lamar at his house who reintroduces Stretch, who seems to have been just released from prison. Franklin doesn't seem too happy about his comeback, which starts an argument with each other, but Lamar reminds them of business.

Franklin, Lamar and Stretch head over to Ammu-Nation and purchase a Pump Shotgun with a flashlight accessory, in case the deal goes wrong. They then drive to a warehouse where they meet up with D, whom Franklin and Lamar kidnapped earlier with help from Chop.

What at first appears as a deal turns out to be an ambush by the Ballas; D betrays them, and Stretch shoots and kills him in the head. Franklin, Lamar, and Stretch then fight their way out, killing many groups of Ballas members and starting a fire inside. Then they realize that the police are just outside and have a police helicopter hovering over them. Franklin takes out the policemen in the helicopter. The trio make their way to the roads where they steal a vehicle to get away from the police. They just look for a hiding place such as an alley and tunnel.

The trio then drives back to Franklin's house after losing the cops. After going home, Franklin looks for a better vehicle, steals it, and takes it to his garage.

Gener Guzman

After Franklin steals a better vehicle. Michael gets a phone call from Amanda saying she had been arrested over an altercation at Didier Sachs, and needs rescuing. He agrees.

After Michael agrees to help his wife, he finds Amanda locked in the back seat of a Police Cruiser parked outside the shop. A police officer stands nearby talking to another person (presumably an owner or employee of the store). Michael steals the Cruiser and evades the cops. In transit, Amanda has a discussion with Michael over money with both sides being guilty as Michael's day trading portfolio is losing the family money, and Amanda's spending habits doing the same. The couple will return to their mansion where Amanda thanks Michael for helping her and the mission ends. After helping, Michael eats his dinner at Burger Shot and heads home. When he gets home, he just has fun until he goes to sleep at bedtime.

Chapter 2

Michael wakes up and gets ready to meet Lester for work to earn enough money to pay Martin Madrazo's damages caused by destroying Madrazo's deck earlier. He drives to the garment factory. When he arrives, he waits a few hours before Lester arrives.

Michael meets Lester at his garment factory before the duo drive to the Vangelico Jewelry Store. Once on location, Lester instructs him to walk in and use a pair of camera-glasses to take pictures of the displays, ventilation, and the alarm system.

Afterwards, Michael drives around the block and goes upstairs to the roof via a building in renovation in order to scout for the store's ventilation sources. After examining the roof for the smart approach, he goes back to the garment factory.

When the duo arrives at the factory, Lester sets up a planning board and offers two ways to execute the heist to Michael. Michael picks the loud approach. He hires several workers for the heist: Eddie Toh for the driver, Packie McReary for the gunman, and Rickie Lukens for the hacker. After hiring the three workers, Michael leaves the garment factory.

Later, Michael gets a text from Lester about the LSPD team SUV containing carbine rifles, which is an ingredient for the upcoming jewel store heist. He tracks down the SUV and shoots all the members in the head. He takes the SUV to the subway tunnel until the cops are evaded. After evading the cops, Michael delivers the SUV to the garment factory.

Michael returns to the garment factory, sleeps, and starts a heist meeting.

Gener Guzman

Franklin drives Michael, Eddie and Packie to the jeweler's in a van to the jewelry store. Donning helmets, they kick the door to enter and threaten with the gun to tell the hostages to get down. While Packie holds the hostages, Michael and Eddie start ransacking and robbing the store while Franklin waits outside with the bikes. The store manager tries to intervene, and Packie McReary handles it. The alarm goes off in 25 minutes because Michael selects Rickie Lukens as the hacker. Overall, the crew leaves the store and prepares for the escape.

Once the robbery has been committed, Franklin escapes on a bike with Eddie and Packie. Eddie navigates the escape route for the crew. The crew goes into the tunnels from the Del Perro Freeway and exits at the Los Santos Storm Drain sewers.

Using the Los Santos sewer network to evade the police, the crew eventually ends up at the Los Santos River into a pack of awaiting police cars. In the meantime, Michael and Rickie go to get the delivery truck and use it to forcibly push the cops out of the way.

Once the police attention has been lost, the bikes are loaded onto the truck and are driven to Lester's lockup where the crew splits up. The crew robbed $4,946,153. Martin Madrazo is given $2,500,000 while the rest gets split between the crew members. Because this is Franklin's first Heist, he receives a fixed percentage as a hired gunman/driver, rather than splitting the take equally with Michael. Michael overall earns more money than all the other crew members.

After the night passes, Franklin shows that Tanisha is none too thrilled with Franklin's newfound wealth while he is relaxing at the Vanilla Unicorn. Franklin wants to take her out on a date as a girlfriend, which she refuses as Franklin tells her he had to leave and that he hopes to see her soon. Soon after Franklin enjoys the strip club, he leaves and gets into his car, thinking about celebrating. Meanwhile, Michael is on his way home, also thinking about the same too.

Grand Theft Auto V

The plan is that Franklin and Michael will celebrate at Michael's house, have a party, and watch the news on TV about the jewel store heist. That is one of the rewards for robbing the jewel store by working hard as a crew. The other two rewards are the cuts from the heist and getting everything paid off such as the bills and all the damage cost for Martin Madrazo.

Chapter 3

When Michael comes home, he meets Amanda and sits down on the couch, waiting for Franklin to come. When Franklin arrives and meets Michael at his house, they each have a drink to celebrate their successful heist. While they discuss business, Dave Norton, the FIB agent who offered him witness protection then appears out of the blue and warns Michael that his involvement in the heist has alerted the FIB and may alert his former associate, Trevor Philips. Unconcerned by this, Michael brushes this aside by claiming that Trevor must be dead, before denying any involvement in the heist. Dave switches the television on to watch a news reporter interviewing the police officer Michael threatened outside the jewelry store. Michael switches the television off and again denies any involvement in the heist.

Unbeknownst to Michael, Trevor is still alive. He overhears the news report while having sex with Ashley Butler in his trailer in Sandy Shores. The police officer being interviewed mentions a phrase used by one of the robbers: "You forget a thousand things everyday, make sure this is one of them." Trevor instantly recognizes this as a phrase often used by Michael. Shocked by this, Trevor zips up his pants, grabs a beer and walks out of the trailer, encountering Lost MC leader Johnny Klebitz who is angry at Trevor for again having sex with Ashley. Trevor ignores Johnny as Wade Hebert and Ron Jakowski attempt to restrain him.

A still shocked and confused Trevor continues to walk away with Johnny walking after him expressing his anger. Trevor eventually snaps and fires several insults at Johnny, before sarcastically telling Johnny to drop his pants so that they can have sex, believing that is the reason for his anger. At this point, Trevor is hiding his anger at Johnny.

An emotionally drained Johnny calms down, admitting to Trevor that he still loves Ashley. After feigning an attempt to console Johnny, Trevor grabs him by the throat and shoves him to the ground before smashing the beer bottle against his head and repeatedly stamping on it, killing him. After telling Johnny to get up before realizing he is dead, Trevor, Ron and Wade head off to Trevor's truck, leaving a tearful Ashley to cradle Johnny's body.

Knowing that the rest of the Lost will be very angry over their leader's death, Trevor decides to wipe out the local chapter of The Lost M.C. and their meth business from Blaine County, before they have a chance to exact revenge. He drives with Wade and Ron to a Lost hangout in Grapeseed where Terry Thorpe, Clay Simons, and other members of the Lost are hanging about. After Trevor announces and mocks Johnny's death, the members of The Lost retreat to their trailer park to notify the rest of the gang. Trevor follows them there and brutally kills the whole gang in his psychotic rage, including Terry and Clay.

Afterwards, Trevor orders Wade to begin looking for Michael Townley, the "ghost" in Los Santos, and drives with Ron to a trailer belonging to the Aztecas leader, Ortega. After pushing Ortega's trailer into the adjacent river, Trevor tortures Ortega, solidifying his new position as Blaine County's meth dealing and illegal firearms trading kingpin. After torturing, he comes back to the trailer, drinks beer, and goes to sleep.

Whenever Trevor enjoys the night, he just eats dinner either outside or at home. When arriving home, he just prepares for the night by drinking, sometimes eating, rarely watching TV, taking a shower, changing clothes, and going to sleep. He goes to sleep for 12 hours usually from 18:00 to 6:00, which are the times where the sun is still visible. He almost never sees the night unless he has to go to work at night in which he does sometimes.

Whenever Trevor wakes up, he eats breakfast and gets ready similar to Franklin and Michael. Unlike these two, Trevor always goes to work everyday, even on weekends.

Trevor drives to and meets Tao Cheng (who is high on drugs) and his translator at a bar. Shortly afterwards, he receives a call from Chef, warning him that the Aztecas are on their way to Trevor's meth lab in order to kill Trevor and destroy his business.

Trevor arrives at the lab and locks Cheng and his translator in a freezer. Chef and Trevor rush into the lab just in time before waves of Aztecas start to descend on the meth lab. They get into a fight with the Aztecas using the guns and even exploding some tanks nearby.

After the shootout, Trevor releases Tao and his translator from the freezer. He tries to restart their negotiations now that the threat has been dealt with, but Cheng's translator refuses. He gets in a car with Tao, claiming he has seen quite enough of how Trevor operates, and he and Tao drive off. Trevor heads back home to his trailer.

Trevor arrives at his trailer, to find Ron, who anxiously informs him that The Lost MC have ransacked the trailer. What angers him the most is that they have managed to break apart his Impotent Rage statue. Before Trevor can exact his revenge, he threatens Wade into quickly finding Michael Townley, which he has so far been unsuccessful in doing.

Outside the trailer, Trevor explains to Ron that two weapons planes will be landing at Sandy Shores Airfield later that day, with Trevor planning to "appropriate them". To prepare for this, Trevor and Ron take two Blazers, and he rides to the local Ammu-Nation while Ron goes to the vantage point. Trevor threatens the store clerk into giving him a Sniper Rifle, a scope, and a suppressor all for free. After leaving the store, Trevor rides to meet Ron at a water tower to the North of the airfield. He takes a nap at the tower for a few hours. After Trevor wakes up, Ron makes his way towards the airfield whilst Trevor watches on through a sniper rifle. After Trevor kills any watching bikers, Ron plants a bomb on a gas tank at the airfield. A helicopter piloted by several enemies appears above and Ron warns Trevor to shoot it down, so they won't notice about the attack. Trevor shoots its pilot, resulting in the chopper descending and eventually crashes and explodes because the driver is killed by Trevor.

Despite this, The Lost notices the attack and prepares to launch a counter attack. As Ron prepares to escape in one of the planes, Trevor, instead of riding along with him, decides to hop onto the plane's wing on his stomach. While Ron is piloting the plane out of the hangar, Trevor fires at the members of The Lost MC whilst laying on his stomach, back and side, killing enemies who can threaten Ron and his plane.

As Ron taxis further down the runway, Trevor leaps off the plane's wing and takes another plane. While taking off, Trevor hits two bikers, one flailing out from underneath the speeding plane, while the other leaps onto and grasps the wing as Trevor takes off, but Trevor quickly takes him out before continuing to fly.

Ron leads Trevor over the ocean, where he encourages Trevor to fly low to avoid getting spotted by the military base. Both men drop their merchandise into some waiting boats before flying back to a different airfield. Ron goes back to the Sandy Shores Airfield while Trevor lands the plane at the McKenzie field hangar in Grapeseed.

After landing the plane, Trevor looks for more work by purchasing the hangar for $150000. When purchasing, he meets Oscar Guzman, the boss who introduces the property itself, the jobs offered there such as the ground and plane, and the weekly income. Trevor is so excited to work for his new and first property ever to start shortly.

Trevor decides to take the arms trafficking ground and goes near a mobile home on East Joshua Road to pick up an arms package before the Rednecks reach the place; he also avoids main roads to not draw the attention of the police. He goes to the location and picks up the package. While picking up, he kills the guards and then heads back to the airfield. After each of the ground missions are complete, Trevor earns $5000 plus more for bonus work.

After dropping off the ground package, Trevor starts working by dropping two packages in two different zones on the map, one of the drop zones will be in Great Chaparral, near the Route 68; the other drop zone will be in the Altruist Camp in the Chiliad Mountain State Wilderness, by plane. After both of the packages are delivered, Trevor goes back to the McKenzie Field Hangar and lands the plane in the hangar. After each of the air missions are complete, Trevor earns $7000 plus more for bonus work.

After working three missions in one work day, Trevor finds and steals one of his favorite vehicles and parks it in the garage. After parking, he settles down and goes to sleep.

Trevor wakes up and gets ready for another work. He drives to Yellow Jack Inn, since that is the starting location for work, and confronts Tao and his interpreter. When they mention they want to pursue other jobs, Trevor threatens them to get them to tell him who they are working with, the O'Neil brothers. Trevor, now furious, proceeds to the O'Neil ranch, calling to threaten Elwood O'Neil on the way there. Upon arrival, Trevor begins a heavy assault against the guards and goes to the basement where the O'Neil's meth lab is located. Because the enemies seem more accurate, Trevor uses his special ability, which makes him temporarily invincible, and kills them all. After killing the enemies, Trevor then picks up a Jerry can and pours a trail of petrol outside and all through the house; he ignites the trail by shooting at the trail, causing the house to explode in a blazing inferno. Trevor then proceeds to leave the area.

After burning the house, Trevor comes home to his trailer and sees Wade Hebert coming up to him and apologizing, only for Trevor to punch Wade off his front porch and ask if he found Michael Townley. Wade tells Trevor that two "Michael Townleys" live in Los Santos, but neither matches Trevor's description (one is aged 83 and the other is at kindergarten). However, a man of the same age named Michael De Santa, who has two children and is married to a woman named Amanda, matches Trevor's description. Trevor "congratulates" Wade (by punching him again for "withholding information" from him), and tells Ron to take control of his business while he and Wade are in Los Santos. Trevor and Wade drive to Stab City, The Lost MC's trailer park, with Wade giving Trevor the weapons he asked for previously. A few hours later into the night in which rare, heavy thunderstorms come to trailer park, Trevor sneaks around the trailer park, killing Lost MC members and planting several Sticky Bombs on the trailers. Once he has planted the bombs, he detonates them, destroying the trailer park and thus weakening the power and influence of The Lost MC. After destroying the trailer park, Trevor leaves the park and drives to Los Santos with Wade. When they reach Vinewood Hills, Trevor pulls over and climbs to the top of a hillside. Now overlooking the city, Trevor tells Michael that he is coming for him, before he and Wade drive to Vespucci Beach, where they take up residence in an apartment owned by Wade's cousin, Floyd, and his fiancée.

After arriving at Floyd's apartment, Trevor and Wade meet Floyd for a few minutes before Floyd leaves his apartment. After Floyd leaves, Trevor settles down in his new "home" before heading to Michael's house in Rockford Hills to meet his old friend. After exploring the new home, Trevor finally sleeps just as sunset is starting and ending.

Chapter 4

Trevor is living his new city life in Los Santos in order to meet his old friend Michael. He comes to Michael's house by driving there just a few minutes or so after Michael wakes up.. At the De Santa household, Michael is making himself a drink and finds a marijuana bag belonging to Jimmy in the fridge. At that point, Amanda enters and, believing the drugs to be Michael's, begins arguing with Michael about the state of their family. Fabien appears to greet Amanda, before Jimmy appears looking for his drugs. Michael confronts Jimmy, which leads to another argument. The tension is broken by the arrival of Trevor Philips, which shocks everyone, especially Michael, who believes Trevor to be dead.

Trevor "greet" Michael, Amanda, Jimmy, and a yoga instructor named Fabien before noticing that Tracey is not in the house. Jimmy says she is auditioning for the Fame or Shame talent show. Michael and Trevor drive to the Maze Bank Arena, where they find Lazlow Jones about to present Tracey to the show's three judges. Tracey performs an erotic dance, and Lazlow joins in, which enrages Michael and Trevor. The duo crash the audition, before Lazlow flees the Arena with Michael and Trevor in hot pursuit.

Michael and Trevor emerge to find their car towed away, so they hijack a Phantom to chase Lazlow who attempts to escape in his red Dilettante. They follow Lazlow through Los Santos, eventually cornering him when his car's fuel runs out in the Los Santos Storm Drain. Trevor forces Lazlow to dance without his pants on and warns him not to touch Tracey again.

Lazlow agrees and runs away. Afterwards, Michael and Trevor part ways. Michael calls Dave while Trevor drives away in the Phantom that they hijacked earlier. Dave tells Michael to meet him at the Galileo Observatory as soon as possible.

After being told by Dave, Michael heads towards Dave to visit him. During the meeting, Michael confesses that he robbed the Vangelico store with Franklin and dares Dave to arrest him, to allow Dave to gain extra credit with the FIB.

Dave refuses. Instead, he asks Michael for a favor. Ferdinand Kerimov, an informant and suspected terrorist, has been declared dead by the IAA, but the FIB believe he is being "debriefed" somewhere. Dave wants Michael to enter the morgue in Strawberry and confirm that Kerimov is indeed dead. Because the IAA has the morgue secured, Michael must sneak in. Dave facetiously remarks that Michael should have no trouble "playing dead", before knocking him out with a truncheon. With Michael slipping out of consciousness, Dave quickly informs him to call him when he regains consciousness.

In the morgue, Michael regains consciousness in a body bag. The bag is soon unzipped, and two medical examiners begin preparing Michael's body for autopsy. Michael surprises the examiners, choking one while the other runs away. A guard soon appears that is killed by Michael by sneak attack. Michael then checks the corpses in the morgue. He discovers one with Kerimov's name on the toe tag, but the body is of a black woman, and is obviously not Kerimov. Michael calls Dave to relay the news. Dave tells Michael he must escape the morgue.

At this point, more guards appear. Michael shoots his way through the first floor and up to the second where he retrieves his clothes and weapons. From there, He shoots out a window and jumps into a dumpster below. He evades the cops by going around the escape route for the Jewelry Heist, after which he calls Franklin and asks him to meet at the oil derricks in El Burro Heights. Once there, Michael urges Franklin to flee Los Santos, warning him that the FIB will soon put Franklin's life in danger. Franklin states that Michael has helped him, and so he will help Michael. Michael thanks Franklin for his loyalty before Franklin leaves. Michael heads back home, settles down, eats his dinner, and goes to sleep.

Michael wakes up, gets ready, drives, and meets Dave Norton, Steve Haines and Andreas Sanchez outside the FIB Headquarters. Haines explains that the IAA are interrogating Ferdinand Kerimov, the man Michael attempted to identify at the coroner's office. Haines orders Michael to extract Kerimov from the IAA Headquarters before he informs the IAA agents of the FIB's corrupt actions. Michael refuses, but Haines uses his position as Norton's superior to coerce Michael and Norton into performing the task.

Michael and Dave get into Dave's car and drive to an FIB warehouse in East Los Santos. During the drive, Michael phones Franklin and asks him to meet them at the warehouse. Dave tells Michael to call Trevor, but he refuses, so Dave explains that they called him previously. The duo arrive at the warehouse, where Michael introduces Franklin and Trevor to each other, before explaining their task. Trevor will be flying the helicopter to the IAA building, Michael will perform the extraction while Franklin will provide support for Michael using a sniper rifle.

Trevor and Michael get in the helicopter and fly to the IAA building. When they arrive, Franklin is already perched on the roof of the Arcadius Business Center opposite the building. As Trevor hovers overhead, Michael rappels down the building and finds Kerimov being tortured by Karen and some other IAA agents. Michael breaks the office window and grabs Kerimov whilst holding a gun to his head. The agents point their weapons at Michael, prompting Franklin to kill them. With the first wave of agents clear, Trevor hoists Michael and Kerimov up while Franklin kills the remaining agents. Once Michael and Kerimov are in the helicopter, some IAA helicopters appear. Franklin kills one pilot, while Michael kills the others. After the helicopters have been taken down, Franklin leaves, while Trevor flies back to the FIB warehouse. When they land, Michael hands Kerimov to some FIB agents, who bundle him into the back of a van and drive off. Michael and Trevor split up and the mission ends.

Michael receives a phone call from Steve Haines telling them to go to a warehouse and meet Trevor. There, they find Haines and Dave Norton along with Devin Weston.

Ferdinand Kerimov is revealed once Weston exits. Haines wants Michael to assassinate Tahir Javan, an Azerbaijani man who Haines and Norton claim has ties to terrorism. Kerimov previously set up an audio-visual system for Javan and so is the FIB's only source of information. Haines orders Michael to go with Norton to locate Javan, while Trevor and Haines remain in the warehouse with Kerimov in order to torture for more information.

Michael and Norton drive to their first location, a home in Los Santos, but this turns out to be a false lead. Haines then orders Trevor to torture Kerimov in order to discover Javan's whereabouts. There are four ways in which Trevor can torture Kerimov:

- Waterboarding
- Beating him with a wrench. Where Trevor hits depends on his position as he observes Mr. K.
- Electrical shocks from a car battery.
- Extracting a tooth using pliers. First tooth changes speech.

The first round of torture reveals that Javan is actually at a beach house in Chumash. Michael and Norton drive to the home, but once there, they discover that a party is in full swing and that there are several men present who could possibly be Javan. At this point, Haines orders Trevor to engage in more torture. Through three additional rounds of torture, Kerimov reveals that Javan is:

- A man of average height and weight

- Has a beard

- Is a chain smoker and left handed

- Smokes Redwood Cigarettes

Through these clues, Michael is able to identify Javan and assassinate him. After the assassination, the party is disrupted, and most party members flee the area. Because assassinations through snipers are hard to identify, Michael does not get wanted by the police.

Back at the warehouse, Haines tells Trevor that Kerimov is "expendable" and orders him to kill Kerimov after Haines has left. Once Haines departs, Trevor instead decides to free Kerimov and then guides him from the warehouse and into his truck, at which point he drives Kerimov to the airport and tells him to flee Los Santos. Trevor drops Kerimov off at the airport, where he falls down a flight of stairs. Trevor drives off to his house.

Michael comes home and sleeps. A few hours later, he decides to stay at home to watch movies while drinking and smoking, which disgusts Amanda, causing her to throw his cigar in his drink and they talk about Trevor. Fabien LaRouche soon comes in and encourages Michael to join them. Amanda protests, but Michael agrees. Together, the three move outside where Fabien leads Michael through three yoga poses. After these three, Fabien demonstrates a fourth pose with Amanda, one which looks very much like a sexual act. Enraged, Michael attempts to hit Fabien who dodges, causing Michael to fall into the pool. Amanda yells at Michael and she and Fabien leave. Michael is too slow getting out of the pool to chase the two. That means he is no longer going to see the family for a while and loses them in the process.

Quite upset, Michael goes to find Jimmy. Jimmy is reluctant to spend time with his dad, but eventually agrees. The two drive to a Burger Shot to pick up some drugs from Jimmy's friend Ahron Ward. The buy goes smoothly, but on their way back home, Michael drinks a soda which turns out to have been drugged by Jimmy. Jimmy forces his father out of the car and drives off while someone off-screen drags Michael away. Michael suffers massive hallucinations, including being surrounded by angry chimps and abducted by aliens before being dropped midair over Los Santos, resulting in a massively multicolored freefall.

When Michael finally wakes, he finds himself in only his underwear located somewhere nearby the house. He rushes back home. In the kitchen, he discovers a note from Amanda explaining that she and the children have left for a while since they cannot stand Michael's crazy antics. Once the mission ends, Michael gets a text from Jimmy stating that he has taken the car and $5000 from his bank account and found a place of his own.

Meanwhile, Franklin is preparing for his work by buying strong armor and weapons at Ammu-Nation. He has enough money to fulfill such items because of the Jewelry Heist. After buying at Ammu-Nation, he drives back home to start working.

At Franklin's house, Lamar and Denise heckle the latter for his neglect of the CGF as of late. Franklin however does not want to be apart of the petty gang banging in any way possible. Trevor suddenly appears out of the blue. After giving Denise a few bucks and shooing her back into the house, he says his reason for being there is to make new friends. At that moment, a drug deal sounded ravishing.

Grand Theft Auto V

The men load themselves into the back of Lamar's van, along with Lamar's dog Chop, and head to Grove Street, where they will do the exchange with the Ballas. After reaching Grove Street shortly, everyone gets out of the van and follows Lamar up to one of the houses (The house being in the same position as The Johnson House in 1992). The dealer opens the door suspiciously as all three men are presented with a white block wrapped in plastic. Once it is cut open, Lamar gets a taste and is extremely eager to hand over a lot of cash for it.

Trevor however, is much more skeptical. He asks if they can take a sample from the other side of the brick, but the dealer refuses to do so and instead plays hardball. As Trevor grows frustrated, he snatches the block from out of the dealer's hands, and snaps it in half, proving his skepticism to be correct after all; it was just a gram of nose-candy along with drywall filler.

The throbbing score violently begins to increase as more armed Ballas members appear in Felons disposed to kill the trio as Chop runs back home. This starts a major battle of the Families-Ballas war, a bloody and intense gang war that lasted for decades. Franklin thinks that if the trio wins the battle, he would win Grove Street, one of the most important streets of the Families gang. The trio continue to fight the Ballas through Grove Street.

In the heat of the battle, the LSPD shows up to deal with the situation. Franklin and Trevor follow Lamar through a narrow alley that he found in an effort to help the men escape. As they run towards the open water, they see the rapper MC Clip and a group of girls in colourful bikinis dancing for a film crew in front of three jet skis. After stealing them, all three men head towards the open sea. They continue moving through the river until they split up.

After riding across the ocean and putting distance between them and the cops, Franklin figures that the cops would have a harder time catching them if they all split up. He decides to escape the cops with Lamar. He steals a random car and escapes the cops with it. After escaping, Franklin and Lamar head to Lamar's house. On the way, they talk about the history of their gang, the Families, and how they used to control Grove Street a long time ago such as 1992. They also believe that the leader at the time, Sweet Johnson, is dead when the Ballas wins Grove Street somewhere between 1992 and now. Later, they arrive at Lamar's house, and Franklin drops Lamar off. After dropping off Lamar, Franklin goes home and sleeps.

Chapter 5

Franklin wakes up the next day and gets ready for his work. He plans to work by going out in the streets and hanging around his gang members.

Meanwhile, Trevor heads back to Floyd's apartment in Vespucci Beach where Trevor forces Floyd to help him with a new caper. After Trevor, Wade, and Floyd all dress in stolen longshoreman uniforms, Trevor drives Floyd and Wade to the Port of Los Santos. Along the way, Trevor interrogates Floyd as to whether there is anything worth stealing at the port. Eventually, Floyd reveals the presence of a ship guarded by Merryweather Security, a ship that regular dock employees like Floyd are not allowed to approach and which potentially contains military hardware. Trevor decides that they must find out what is on that ship.

Once at the dock, Wade is pulled aside by a union boss to help with the clean-up of a mysterious spill. Trevor follows Floyd to the mystery ship.

Trevor and Floyd are accosted by a Merryweather guard who demands that they move two shipping containers. To maintain their cover, they use a Dock Handler to move the containers around the dock area.

Trevor wants to take photographs of the mystery ship. To get a better angle on the ship, he climbs a nearby container crane. However, a port boss on the crane orders Trevor to get to work. To maintain his cover, he uses the crane to load two shipping containers onto waiting tractor trailers.

Gener Guzman

Once the containers are loaded, Trevor takes pictures of the ship. He must get three pictures: one of the bow of the ship, one of the security guard watching the gangplank, and one of the ship's stern.

Trevor and Floyd take a loaded tractor trailer to the Los Santos Naval Port, which is also guarded by Merryweather. Trevor gets out of the tractor trailer and pretends to have a delivery. Merryweather guards quickly surround him. Floyd tries to intervene but is knocked down and assaulted by the guards for his troubles. In the ensuing melee, Trevor sneaks into a guardhouse and steals a briefcase containing a shipping manifest. He then leaves, abandoning Floyd to the guards in which Floyd is believed to either be wasted or busted.

Trevor returns back to the apartment. There he finds Wade sitting on the couch and covered in industrial waste. There are two ways that the heist can be executed, and Trevor chooses the Offshore approach because he wants to own a minisub and cargobob. He will eventually use the minisub to explore the underwater Pacific Ocean while the cargobob will be used to capture several vehicles for several purposes like torturing, destroying, and exploding them as well as carrying the minisub to the ocean. Before Trevor goes to sleep, he also calls Michael, asking him to improve his flying skill in the Flight School.

Trevor wakes up on Saturday where he plans to explore Vespucci Beach. He gets ready for the day, dressing up in a beach outfit. He explores the businesses there and takes several pictures in the morning. During lunch time, he comes back home and eats his meal. After lunch, he goes to the gym and uses his invincibility cheat to fight everyone in the gym. Because of this, the cops arrive and chase Trevor, but Trevor escapes to the beach and goes underwater to escape from the cops with the invincibility cheat still on. After two hours and 30 seconds since the cheat activation, the cheat is finally deactivated. After escaping the cops, Trevor spends the rest of the day enjoying the beach and going back home to go to sleep.

On Sunday, Michael enjoys his day by exploring Del Perro and going to Hill Valley Church. In the morning, he parks his car at the parking lot above the Del Perro tunnel and explores the Prosperity Street Promenade for an hour. After an hour passes, he drives to Hill Valley church. The mass starts at 9:00 and ends at 10:00. After church, he drives to Del Perro beach and explores Pleasure Pier where he enjoys his lunch and rides there. After exploring, he dives in at the end of the pier and swims back to the beach. He enjoys the beach until almost sunset. When sunset is coming, Michael heads back home for the rest of the day.

On Monday, Michael responds to Trevor's advice by taking his chance to go to flight school at Los Santos International Airport. He goes to school and tries his first lesson. He is not good at flying planes but is good at flying helicopters. His first lesson involves taking off with a plane in which he is familiar with. His second lesson is hard because he sucks at landing the plane. During the second lesson, he has a difficult time landing the plane safely, so he keeps failing the lesson too many times until he quits flight school.

After Franklin enjoys his lunch, he also wants to learn to fly. He goes to flight school and thinks that he will pass the school. Unlike Michael, Franklin passes the second lesson. After passing the second lesson, he does more lessons until the school closes. After the school closes, Franklin starts to head back home, settling down for the night, and goes to sleep.

On Tuesday, Trevor gets ready for his work and decides to take the plans using a chopper and a submarine. He plans to steal a yellow Submersible first, which is hanging off the freighter located in the Port of Los Santos. To free the submarine, he sneaks onto the ship and releases the cables holding the submarine using an on-ship control panel. He boards the submarine and pilots it to a different part of the port. There, Floyd pulls the submarine from the water using a crane and places the submarine on a semi-truck with a large flatbed trailer. Trevor and Floyd tie down the submarine, then together drive it to a port warehouse for safekeeping. After that, Trevor heads back to Floyd's apartment and goes to sleep.

After Trevor wakes up, he gets ready for work. He needs a Cargobob to carry the submarine for The Merryweather Heist. He takes a long drive to the Fort Zancudo air base and steals the Cargobob while avoiding the guards. As soon as the cargobob exits the base, a Buzzard starts chasing Trevor, forcing him to lose it. After losing the buzzard, Trevor flies to and parks the helicopter at Sandy Shores Airfield at the Grand Senora Desert. After parking the helicopter, he flies back home. Meanwhile, Franklin heads back home and goes to sleep.

Franklin wakes up prepared for the heist. He goes to Floyd's apartment by 6:00 where he meets Michael and Trevor. Trevor explains the plan. Trevor, Michael, and Franklin get into Trevor's truck, and Michael drives them to the Sandy Shores Airfield. The trio arrive at the airfield, where Trevor enters the Submersible delivered by Wade and Floyd in the Packer. Michael uses the Cargobob to lift the Submersible, and they fly to the Merryweather test site in the Pacific Ocean, near Paleto Cove. Michael releases the Submersible close to the test site, and Trevor uses a Trackify app to locate the device. Trevor finds the device and ascends to the surface. Michael lifts the Submersible out of the ocean with the Cargobob. En route to the airstrip, the Cargobob is being attacked by Merryweather helicopters and boats, but Franklin manages to fend off the pursuers with a Combat MG. The fight then continues as the Merryweather chases down like the cops just after a robbery.

Grand Theft Auto V

Michael lands the Cargobob back at the airfield. At this point, Lester Crest appears and warns the trio to return the device as it is a highly-dangerous super weapon, and would make them targets for the authorities. Trevor refuses, but relents when Michael promises to find him another "score". Lester leaves with Wade to return the device, and Michael drives off with Franklin, leaving Trevor alone at the airfield. Trevor finds the cargobob and parks it in his helicopter pad. Meanwhile, Franklin is dropped off somewhere by Michael and heads back home on his own to enjoy his last night at his aunt's crib.

Chapter 6

Franklin wakes up the next day and gets ready for his work. Since Lester wants Franklin to come to a phone box in Del Perro, Franklin drives there for work.

Lester orders Franklin to kill Brett Lowrey, CEO of Bilkinton Research, while Lowrey is leaving the Von Crastenburg Hotel in Richman. Lester suggests two ways in which this can be accomplished: by shooting Lowrey with a sniper rifle or by destroying Lowrey's car (with Lowrey inside) with a sticky bomb. Franklin decides to and snipes Brett from the parking garage. After sniping, he escapes the scene before the cops show up. Once this is accomplished, he then calls Lester to confirm that the job is done. Lester tells Franklin that their investment portfolio is getting a "little successful". He figures that tangible assets would be the best investment, so he bought Franklin a house in Vinewood Hills. Also, that he needs someone to live there due to tax purposes. So, Franklin comes to mind, and Lester tells him that all of his stuff is being moved from his aunt's house to the new property. Franklin was surprised and ecstatic that Lester is giving him an entire property for free, as well as feeling relieved, for not having to live with his crazed aunt Denise, ever again as well as for a nicer, bigger house.

After the call with Lester, Franklin drives to the new house and starts moving in. Once he moves in, he notices that all of his stuff is packed into boxes ready to be moved in as well. He explores more of the new house, including the garage and the backyard. After spending a few hours moving in and exploring, Franklin changes his outfit and goes to sleep.

Grand Theft Auto V

On Saturday, Franklin wakes up and gets ready to enjoy the weekend. He plans to explore the eastern side of Vinewood for a day and steal a regular sedan before going to sleep. He goes out and starts to explore starting from the east side of Downtown Vinewood. After exploring downtown, he explores East Vinewood that contains the Vinewood Bowl, the horse track, and the casino entrance. After exploring the casino entrance, he finds a regular sedan to steal before exploring more or heading back home to go to sleep. While Franklin is on the way home before the night, Michael also goes home as well to eat dinner and go to sleep.

On Sunday, Michael wakes up and also gets ready to enjoy the weekend. He plans to explore the western side of Vinewood for a day and steal a better SUV or van if he does not take the Vinewood Stars Tours. Early in the morning, he starts to explore West Vinewood from the Up n Atom Burger and explores on the way to church. He goes to church by 9:00. The mass ends at 10:00. After Michael leaves the church, he makes his way to Downtown Vinewood and explores a little bit of it before making his way to the Vinewood Tour. He goes on the Vinewood tour for the rest of the day. After the tour, he heads back home and goes to sleep.

On Monday, Michael wakes up and gets ready for work. He drives to Murrieta Oil Fields to meet up with Franklin, Trevor, Steve Haines, Dave Norton, and Andreas Sanchez to discuss business. Once there, Haines and Norton tell the protagonists that the FIB wants to rob the IAA. The target: an armored car filled with funds the Agency earned from drug sales. Haines wants the three to "requisition" those funds for the Bureau. After the agents leave, Michael comes up with a plan: "classic blitz play." He lays out the general approach, then the team splits up. Soon, Michael makes a conference call to his two partners with more details. This unlocks the heist setups missions with each contact point marked as HS on the map.

Gener Guzman

The first heist setup is the boiler suits, so Michael goes to the Ammu-Nation in Strawberry and purchases three boiler suits. Once the suits are purchased, he moves on.

The next heist setup is masks. Michael drives to a clothing shop at Vespucci Beach and buys three masks for each leader to use during the heist.

The third heist setup is the garbage truck. As Trevor, he tracks down a garbage truck. The truck is moving, and can generally be found in the Mirror Park, La Mesa or East Vinewood areas of Los Santos. After stealing the truck, Trevor must return it to the FIB warehouse in El Burro Heights. Before doing so, however, he loses a two-star wanted level. The mission ends once the truck has been delivered.

The last heist setup is the tow truck and a getaway vehicle. As Franklin, he steals a tow truck from an auto repair shop on Elysian Island. A mechanic is working on a car next to the tow truck; he gets tortured and heavily injured. After taking the truck, Franklin returns it to the FIB warehouse in El Burro Heights. Once the tow truck is delivered, the mission ends. After this, one of the leaders delivers a getaway vehicle to a secluded location near the heist location. After the getaway vehicle is delivered, all of the leaders go to sleep and get ready for the heist.

All three leaders go to work at a meeting somewhere near the heist scene. After the three exchange pleasantries, Michael outlines the plan. Trevor finds an elevated perch and serves as the lookout, notifying the other two when the security truck is nearing the site of the attempted robbery so they can block the road.

The job starts with Trevor as he looks at the oncoming traffic through a pair of binoculars to locate the armored truck. Once he spots it, Michael drives the garbage truck, who maneuvers the vehicle to block the entire street, so the truck can be blocked.

When the garbage truck is in place, the armored truck approaches the roadblock and screeches to a halt with the occupants commenting negatively on it. Franklin drives the tow truck from an alley. He gives a heavy foot on the gas and rams into the target vehicle at full speed. As a result, the truck is damaged and flips to the side. Franklin walks over and places explosives on the back door of the overturned truck. After detonation, Michael joins Franklin, and the guards emerge with their hands up. The alarm goes off quickly, and police sirens scream in the distance. The team does not have time to collect all the cash, so they take defensive positions and wait to open fire on the LSPD. The heist battle begins between the team and the LSPD. The battle leaves a lot of the LSPD members dead before the team escapes.

After disposing of several waves of cops and their snipers, the rest of the crew escapes somewhere and while Franklin escapes to the placed getaway vehicle. He then blows up the garbage truck in order to destroy evidence and gets into the getaway vehicle. After Franklin feels safe, he contacts Michael and is informed that Michael is on his way to drop off the score. Michael drives to the drop-off point. He drops off the bonds and begins to speak with their contact. The contact then persuades Michael to get his "crew", Trevor and Franklin, to collect five cars for him in exchange for him allowing Michael to work with Solomon Richards and a massive cash payout for each member of the crew. After this is done, Michael heads back home and goes to sleep before working with Mr. Richards.

Michael wakes up the next morning and gets ready to meet Mr. Richards for his next job. He drives to the Richards Majestic Studios and begins his job the first time there.

Michael meets Solomon Richards at the start of work. Solomon complains to Michael that Milton McIlroy, one of the stars of his upcoming film Meltdown has received a new agent, Rocco Pelosi, and is holding out for more money. The film's director, Anton Beaudelaire, is also causing problems, having a mental breakdown and refusing to begin production. Solomon asks Michael to talk to the star and director and convince them to return to the film. Michael agrees.

Michael drives to the location in East Los Santos where Rocco, Milton and Anton are holed up. On the way, Solomon calls Michael and tells him that Rocco is expecting trouble and so will quickly move the star and director if he detects any intruders. Michael agrees to go in stealthily. After reaching the location, a cinematic sequence shows a Frogger landing on the location's roof, after which Rocco tells Milton and Anton that he needs to take care of a few things and then they will leave, before it ends and resumes player control of Michael, who then needs to sneak into the building and up to the roof, either avoiding or using stealth attacks on the various employees working there. Once Michael arrives on the roof he is confronted by Gianni, then Rocco reappears with his other goon who draws a Pistol. Rocco waves him off saying he will take care of it. He and Michael engage a fist-fight. When Michael has defeated Rocco, Michael enters the helicopter with McIlroy and Beaudelaire.

Michael tells Milton and Anton why he is there. The actor and director both state they will not be intimidated, so Michael pilots the helicopter erratically to convince the two to change their mind. The player can fly at high speeds, close to buildings, and under bridges until Milton and Anton relent. After that, Michael flies them back to Backlot City where Milton and Anton speak to Solomon and agree to go back to work later on.

Meanwhile, Franklin arrives at a Limited Service gas station in Little Seoul to discover a nearby payphone ringing. He answers; Lester is on the line. Lester tells Franklin that Redwood Cigarettes has bribed four corrupt jurors to rig an emphysema-related class action lawsuit against the company. Lester wants Franklin to kill the four jurors to help the emphysema victims and so that Lester can make a lot of money. Lester recommends that Franklin pick up a sniper rifle, then hangs up. Almost immediately, he texts Franklin with the location of the first of the four jurors. Franklin must hurry, as the trial concludes the next day; he has four and a half hours to kill all four. While doing the mission, he steals a police car and rushes to kill the four. Once the fourth juror is dead, Franklin calls Lester and informs him the mission is complete.

Finally, Franklin makes his way back to his house in Vinewood Hills. He spends a few moments in the house before sleeping downstairs.

The next morning, Michael, Trevor, and Franklin meet Weston and Molly Schultz at a construction site in Alta. Weston wants the three to steal a blue Cheetah and an orange Entity XF from two trust fund kids. Weston tells Michael and Trevor to dress up as San Andreas Highway Patrol officers while Franklin takes a F620 to find and race the cars.

Franklin drives to a gas station along the Senora Freeway where he challenges the kids to a race. The race heads north up the Freeway. When the race passes Grapeseed, Michael and Trevor follow on police bikes and eventually pull over the speeding trio. Michael and Trevor force the kids from their cars. One of the three then calls Schultz who tells them to drop the cars at Hayes Autos. Michael, Trevor, and Franklin race back to the auto repair shop. There, Weston thanks them for their efforts, but tells them that they will only be paid when all the cars have been collected. Molly explains the next job, to steal a Z-Type from record producer Chad Mulligan, and explains who is needed for the job. The morning job is done.

In the afternoon, Franklin arrives at a payphone at Legion Square where he is contacted by Lester. This time, Lester wants Franklin to assassinate Jackson Skinner, the head of product development for the company Facade. According to Lester, Skinner has been selling customer information to the highest bidder, in effect supporting cyberterrorism.

Lester has learned that Skinner has a taste for working girls, specifically one in La Puerta in Los Santos. Franklin heads to Mutiny Road where he finds the woman in question. Franklin stakes out the prostitute, watching her turn away a number of potential johns. When the woman finally does enter a car, Franklin kills Skinner. After leaving the scene and escaping any potential wanted level, Franklin calls Lester and reports that the job is done.

Franklin goes back to his house and goes to sleep. He wakes up the next morning and finds out that his work is at night and goes into the weekend. While Franklin takes a nap for most of the day, Trevor is already ready for the night mission and heads for the police station.

Trevor arrives at the Mission Row Police Station. Trevor enters the station and tells the desk sergeant that Weston sent him. The sergeant directs Trevor to the roof. There, Trevor boards a waiting Police Maverick. A Los Santos Police Department pilot flies Trevor to the FIB lot in the Murrieta Oil Field area where Franklin is waiting. The Police Maverick then goes up.

Grand Theft Auto V

The Police Maverick is equipped with a special camera, one that allows the camera's user to identify individuals by reading RFID transmitters placed in 2012 San Andreas driver licenses. Once Franklin and Trevor have spoken about the mission, the player is shifted to Trevor's perspective and takes control of the camera while the pilot flies the aircraft from the FIB lot into Downtown Los Santos. Trevor is looking for Chad Mulligan who has the Z-Type automobile Weston wants Franklin and Trevor to steal. The camera identifies four potential targets for Trevor to scan:

Nelson Strauser, a GoPostal mailman. Charged with speeding offense.

Greg Howles, a man which is seen strangled by Larry Loden. Charged with loitering.

Larry Loden, a man which is seen strangling Greg Howles. Charged with Tax Evasion.

Katy Loden, a woman seen watching Greg and Larry fight. She is possibly Larry Loden's wife. Charged with Tax Evasion.

Since none of these are Mulligan, the pilot takes Trevor to a second area where six more targets are identified:

Karina Pearl, a woman trying to cheer Chad Mulligan up. Charged with Disorderly Conduct.

Zeus Karachi, a man walking his dog. Charged with DUI.

Lucien Stark, a hobo seen sleeping and talking through his sleep. Charged with Public Exposure.

Joseph Womac, a man receiving a fellatio from a prostitute and then shot by the prostitute's overprotective pimp, Julio Fabrizo. Charged with Loitering with intent.

The Mulligan is somewhere in this group.

Gener Guzman

Julio Fabrizo, a pimp seen killing Joseph Womac for an unknown reason. Charged with Resisting Arrest.

Melisa Porche, a prostitute giving oral sex to Joseph Womac. Charged with Vice Services.

Mulligan is part of this group.

Once Mulligan has been found, Trevor surveys him to the garage where Mulligan is keeping the Z-Type, all the while updating Franklin on the target's location. Once in the Z-Type, Mulligan tries to escape. Trevor continues to track him using the camera. Eventually, Mulligan attempts to hide in a parking garage. Trevor switches the camera to thermal vision. Trevor first identifies Franklin's thermal signature. After that, Trevor points out other thermal images in the garage, each of which Franklin investigates (Franklin provides interesting commentary on each one). Mulligan is located to the far left of the garage.

At this point, Franklin is standing near the Z-Type and Mulligan. Franklin can choose whether to let Mulligan live or kill him: if Mulligan is spared, he will report the Z-Type as stolen and Franklin will get a two-star Wanted Level; if Mulligan is killed or simply just knocked out, the police are not notified. Franklin kills Mulligan since he owns the Z-Type and also to prevent the owner from calling the cops. He drives the Z-Type to a hanger in the Los Santos International Airport where Weston and Molly Schultz are waiting. Once there, Weston admires the car and remarks that only ten of them exist in the world. Franklin complains about his payment, but Weston assures him that he will receive it once the other two cars are acquired. He advises Franklin to start thinking about his own future and to stop affiliating himself with Michael and Trevor. Weston and Schultz enter a Shamal and prepare for takeoff, but not before Schultz tells Franklin to drive away from the airport using one of the two nearby Tailgaters. Franklin must then leave the airport grounds before the mission is completed.

By the time the mission is completed, Franklin finds himself in the middle of the night. He finally goes to sleep and wakes up near the middle of the day. He then spends time at home without ever having to leave the house. Last, Franklin sleeps for the night.

Meanwhile, Michael is already spending time on the weekend. He is getting ready for his next mission. For most of the weekend for him, he feels all bored alone in his house since his family is gone nowhere. He does not even know where his family is. After a hard weekend, Michael finally gets ready to go to Madrazo's house with Trevor on Monday.

Michael and Trevor are summoned to Madrazo's house in La Fuente Blanca, where Madrazo has a job for them. Madrazo's cousin Javier is going to testify against him; Madrazo wants Javier killed and sensitive documents retrieved.

Michael drives to the Galileo Observatory where Madrazo has left a black Burrito with a heavy rifle mounted in the rear. Michael must use the rifle to shoot down the Air Emu Shamal carrying Javier to Los Santos International Airport. The high-powered rifle uses a unique display that places a red square before the jet, showing the location where Michael must shoot in order to compensate for the distance if he is to hit the engine. The Shamal first appears in the upper left-hand quadrant of the rifle's display (when using the gun, the radar is hidden so it is very difficult to see the plane at first), then crosses left to right towards the airport. Michael must shoot the jet three times to take it out of the sky as it is passing the observatory.

Once the aircraft has been damaged, Trevor is ready to chase the damaged plane. Riding a Sanchez, Trevor chases the fast descending jet from the Galileo Observatory through Great Chaparral, Harmony and Sandy Shores. Trevor keeps up with the plane by making several stunt jumps in the process using the ramps made of sand. Once the aircraft crashes, Trevor must kill Javier and retrieve the sensitive documents contained onboard the Shamal.

Gener Guzman

After Trevor has obtained the documents, the player is switched once again to Michael. Michael takes the van from the area surrounding Galileo Observatory, then destroys the vehicle. Afterwards, Michael is about to make his way to La Fuente Blanca in order to meet up with Trevor, and give the documents to Madrazo. However, Michael receives a phone call from Trevor revealing that he has other ideas. Trevor asks Michael to meet him instead at Stoner Cement Works, north of La Fuente Blanca along Senora Road. Trevor arrives soon after Michael. Trevor states that he went to discuss payment with Madrazo, which led to an argument. Trevor then opens the trunk of his vehicle to reveal he has kidnapped Madrazo's wife Patricia. With Patricia tied up, Michael and Trevor leave the cement works and go into hiding at Sandy Shores.

Meanwhile, Franklin is on the way to his job. His job starts at the stationary phone booth located between downtown Los Santos and Vinewood. Lester is calling on the phone.

Lester tells Franklin that a man will be getting on a bus and that he needs Franklin to kill him. Franklin gets a bus and starts stopping at bus stops picking up passengers. When he stops at the target's bus stop, the target senses something is wrong and makes a run for it. Franklin then chases and kills the target by running over him. A quick phone call to Lester ends the mission.

After killing the target with the bus, Franklin heads back home and researches on the stock market and its major changes due to the assassination earlier. Last, he sleeps.

The next morning, Franklin has to go to work. His work is located in the movie studio where he has to steal a car for Weston's project. He leaves the house and drives to work.

Grand Theft Auto V

Franklin approaches the Backlot City movie studio in Downtown Los Santos. Once there, he calls Molly Schultz who directs him to his current target, the famous movie car JB 700. Molly informs Franklin that only actors and stunt people are authorized to be on the lot, so he will need to either steal Brandon Roberts' costume or find some other way to approach the car.

Franklin enters the lot. He sneaks up on Brandon and knocks him out with a stealth attack. Franklin drags Brandon into a nearby trailer and there dons Brandon's white tuxedo. From there, Franklin approaches the set where the JB 700 is awaiting filming and is occupied by an unnamed actress. He steals the car, and the security attack immediately to save the girl being kidnapped. Franklin drives out of the lot, the actress in the passenger seat yelling at him and occasionally grabbing the wheel, which results in the JB 700 veering off to the side. Franklin uses the JB 700's spike strips to disable the three studio security cars following him, then uses the car's ejector button to get rid of the actress. When he has removed all pursuers and witnesses, Franklin calls Molly, who tells him to take the car to Hayes Auto. Molly also tells Franklin to be on the lookout for a stranger who seems to be watching the garage.

When Franklin arrives at the lockup, he meets Weston. Suddenly, Lamar Davis appears, which reveals that he was the unidentified stranger Molly mentioned on the phone. Weston is excited by Lamar's appearance and encourages Franklin to include Lamar in the next heist. Franklin disparages the suggestion. He leaves the garage alone while Weston and Lamar talk business. Then, he is done for the morning and gets ready to go to Michael's house.

Franklin arrives at Michael De Santa's house looking for him. After discovering the house is empty, Franklin phones Michael, who explains that he and Trevor are currently exiled in Sandy Shores after Trevor's kidnapping of Martin Madrazo's wife Patricia. Once their conversation ends, Michael speaks with Trevor, Patricia, and Ron Jakowski. Trevor asks Ron about Trevor Philips Enterprises. Ron tells Trevor about a potential plot involving Merryweather Security and a large cache of weapons. The instructions for work are done.

Trevor and Ron drive to McKenzie Airfield in Grapeseed, where Trevor takes control of a Duster. Trevor flies towards a Merryweather cargo plane circling near Fort Zancudo. In order to avoid the fort's radar, Trevor flies low to the ground when following the plane along the coast of San Andreas. Even though Trevor flies a lot, he risks crashing low ground. Once Trevor clears the fort's airspace at Braddock Pass, he approaches the cargo plane.

As Trevor approaches the plane, the pilot orders Trevor to divert course several times before engaging. After Trevor ignores the pilot's orders, the pilot opens the rear doors of the cargo bay and Merryweather agents begin firing rockets and shooting at the Duster. Trevor crashes the Duster into the cargo bay, then fights his way past Merryweather mercenaries and sliding Merryweather Mesas to the plane's cockpit where he kills the pilot. Trevor takes control of the aircraft and attempts to fly it back to McKenzie Field. However, he is soon intercepted by two US Air Force fighter jets, who have been sent to escort the plane to Fort Zancudo. Trevor refuses to obey the pilots' demands, resulting in the jets firing missiles at the cargo plane and destroying one of its starboard engines. Forced to bail out, Trevor grabs a parachute and bails out (either using a Merryweather Mesa or jumping from the cargo bay). Trevor parachutes to safety as the plane crashes into the Alamo Sea. Last, he goes to his trailer and sleeps.

That morning, Trevor and Michael wake up and get ready for work. They go to work on their own instead of together. Eventually, they arrive at the meth lab.

Michael and Trevor meet at Trevor's meth lab in Sandy Shores. They are joined there by FIB agents Steve Haines and Dave Norton. Haines has yet another job for Michael and Trevor, but this one requires Michael and Trevor to source the equipment they will need, including a military-grade helicopter which will cost at least $2 million, money that Michael and Trevor do not have. With that in mind, Michael remembers a "bank in the sticks" that Lester Crest referred to previously. Michael phones Lester, who agrees to meet them in Paleto Bay.

Lester arrives in Paleto Bay by bus, and the trio drive to the Blaine County Savings Bank. They inspect the front of the bank, before driving around the back to see the alarm system setup. Lester wants to check the response time of the local police, so Michael shoots one of the alarms to trigger it. The trio drive to a filling station across the road to wait for the police and time their response. "Sixty-seven seconds" later (according to Lester), four cars arrived, with more on standby. Over Lester's police scanner, the police declare the incident a false alarm and intend to set up vehicle-searching checkpoints along the highway. At this point, Trevor leaves the vehicle and steals a motorcycle to ride back to the meth lab. When Trevor exits the car, the player can choose whether to control Michael or Trevor. Trevor is more likely to arrive first, but choosing Michael allows the player to hear specific dialogue between Michael and Lester. Regardless of who arrives first, once the three reach the meth lab, Lester sets up the board for the heist. The player is able to choose a gunman. After the gunman is selected, Michael and Lester leave the meth lab whilst Trevor throws up a bowl of rotten leftovers he was eating during the preparation.

That night, everyone has to work and has not been given a break yet. Something is very important at night. Franklin and Chop in a Baller pursuing a Dubsta containing the remaining O'Neil brothers. Franklin calls Trevor and informs him that he is following the O'Neil brothers along the Great Ocean Highway near North Chumash, and Trevor informs Franklin that he and Michael are heading to Sandy Shores Airfield to collect Trevor's helicopter.

The O'Neil brothers soon drive into Raton Canyon, with Franklin still in pursuit. An elk steps into the road and the O'Neil brothers swerve to avoid it, causing their car to roll down a hillside and crash and catch fire. Franklin and Chop investigate the crash site, only to discover that the O'Neils have disappeared into the woods. He calls Trevor for aerial assistance.

At this point, the player is switched to Trevor. Trevor and Michael arrive at Sandy Shores Airfield and board Trevor's Frogger. They fly to Franklin's location. Once there, Michael uses a sniper rifle with a thermal scope to kill the O'Neils, a task complicated by the fact that the area is swarming with deer whose thermal signatures are similar to that of the O'Neils. Michael eventually kills Walton and Wynn but the remaining brother, Elwood, is hiding behind a rock and starts shooting rockets towards the helicopter, meaning Michael cannot shoot him.

Franklin is still on the ground with Chop. Michael tells Franklin to find Elwood. The player is then prompted to switch to Chop, who tracks him down. Franklin follows Chop and finally kills Elwood. Alternatively, the player can switch to Michael and kill Elwood from the chopper, since Elwood will get out of his cover and try to escape when Franklin reaches his position. The player is switched back to Trevor, who lands the Frogger to allow Franklin and Chop to board, before flying back to Sandy Shores Airfield. Trevor lands the helicopter at the airfield and the mission is completed. Then, he notices the mission goes past midnight.

Trevor must stop a military convoy which consists of a Barracks and two Crusaders. It is travelling through the Grand Senora Desert, heading past Great Chaparral. In preparation for the heist, he must steal the Barracks containing two crates of military hardware and lose any pursuing Military. He kills the military and hijacks. After the hijack, the truck needs to be taken to the meth lab and parked behind Trevor's office. A few moments later, Trevor will call Lester and update him. The mission is then complete and the heist is ready.

The next morning, the crew drives to Paleto Bay, where they drop off Franklin, and then go to the bank entrance. They get out of the van and inside the bank. Inside, Trevor will shoot out the camera, causing the alarm to go off.

Trevor and Michael handle crowd control while the gunman welds the safe deposit box room's door open with a blowtorch. Michael impatiently kicks the door open after it has been weakened and starts to steal money. Meanwhile, Trevor sees two cops pulling up outside, talking about shooting the alarm guy under the assumption that it is another false alarm. He fires a warning shot and shouts that they have hostages. The officers retreat to their cruiser to tell dispatch that the 2-11 (armed robbery) is confirmed and they need everything they have.

Michael, Trevor, and the gunman all convene in the safe deposit box room and collect all the money - consistently $8,016,020. Police have now swarmed and surrounded the bank entrance, the deputy sheriff orders them to surrender and let the hostages go so they can "talk like gentlemen". With all guns trained on the doors, the three men emerge and now don heavy weaponry and body armor acquired from the military convoy. Trevor brings out a minigun, scaring and shocking the police. They take out the cops, including a helicopter, which crashes into a nearby apartment building. The crew heads through the remains of it, and into the backyards of a few houses. After escaping past the houses, NOOSE now appears, and the crew makes its way down the street, and eventually into a construction yard. If an unskilled gunman is chosen, he will be crushed by a police car at this point - his weapon and money bag can be collected near his body, allowing the player to retain the ~$2.5 million held within. If a skilled gunman is chosen, the police car won't show up at all. The Military shows up, bringing a few Rhinos and many soldiers. A Cargobob will appear, flying a Rhino past them.

Franklin, still in charge of the getaway after the original plan (him waiting in a boat in the bay collecting the money and then escaping) is botched, finds a Dozer and drives it towards the crew, while they desperately hold off the military onslaught, guaranteed to lose ~$20,000 in the process. Once Franklin arrives, Michael and Trevor escape in the bucket of the Dozer. Franklin dodges a few tanks and drives to the Cluckin' Bell chicken factory, where the three enter. Eventually, they get to the railway platform, and hold off one last wave of soldiers. If the gunman is alive, he'll help by distracting and holding back some of the soldiers outside, while eventually slipping out of Paleto Bay on his own. If he is killed, then the trio will be forced to engage all the soldiers on their own in the factory. A train eventually arrives at the factory, and the three protagonists jump on and escape by the train ride.

Nightfall comes and the crew leaves the train after arriving in Sandy Shores. Agent Sanchez soon approaches the players, leaving with the majority of the take (78%; ~$6.23 million), after dividing up the relatively small remainder (~$1.75 million) between the three characters (~$425,000 - $463,000 cut, per character). Michael says to split up, as the authorities will be looking for a group of three. Trevor and Franklin drive off in a Utility Truck, leaving Michael by himself. The three then go back home and sleep.

That night, all three members are excited that they are going to have a lot of money. They could even have enough money to purchase more properties or expensive stuff that they do not have and are really important. Finally, the money is coming.

Chapter 9

Michael wakes up the next morning and prepares for his next job. His work is right at Trevor's shared trailer. He waits for the boss to arrive.

Michael is in Trevor's trailer when Ron Jakowski arrives. The two exchange quips. Soon, Trevor also arrives. It is revealed that Merryweather Security is transporting precious cargo via train. Trevor wants Michael's help to steal the payload.

Trevor takes a Sanchez bike to the tracks east of Sandy Shores. He uses some rocky cliffs and outcrops alongside the tracks to jump on top of the train's container cars. He then rides the bike across the train cars and hopping over the gaps in the containers, eventually reaching the locomotive. He enters the locomotive's cab, says "howdy" to the driver, and then proceeds to knock him out by hitting his head against the dashboard. Trevor bypasses the Merryweather unit waiting at the Paleto Bay station, where the train was intended to stop.

Meanwhile, Michael, who is wearing a scuba suit, is sailing a Dinghy up Cassidy Creek. When he reaches a spot near the creek's train bridge, he looks up to see Trevor drive the Merryweather train head-on into another locomotive, causing a terrible accident. Cargo and train cars fall off the bridge and into the river below. Moments before the crash, however, Trevor had jumped free from the train, and he fell through the air and into the water below, which is now filled with cargo containers. He nearly dodges the falling containers. Michael blows the doors off the target container in order to get the payload located inside.

Once the doors have been destroyed, Trevor must fend off oncoming Merryweather boats, helicopters, and snipers while Michael unloads the payload. When Michael has the payload, Trevor jumps into the Dinghy and the two rush down the creek towards the ocean. All the while Trevor must continue to fend off waves of Merryweather troops, using a thermal scope and a sniper rifle. The two eventually reach open water and beach the craft near two separate getaway vehicles. They open the briefcase Michael obtained from the shipping container. The briefcase contains an ancient artifact that could be very important to the two.

Michael wants to give the artifact to Martin Madrazo as a method of apology for Trevor's kidnapping of Patricia Madrazo, Martin's wife. Trevor refuses. Michael offers to help Trevor take down the Union Depository if Trevor agrees. Trevor is skeptical, but Michael insists that with Franklin's help, they can do it. Trevor finally agrees. Michael takes the artifact and leaves, ending the mission. Last, the two plan on the big heist and then sleeps.

At the trailer, Michael wakes up the next day and wants to go back to Los Santos. He just wants to find out what happens when he attempts to return home. His goal is to return home for today with a chance of escaping to the countryside if the enemies continue to chase. Taking the risk, Michael packs up from the trailer and drives off.

Michael feels like he is having a return trip home. At first, the trip is very peaceful as the car is still in Blaine County, especially Sandy Shores. Eventually, Michael turns left to Route 68 and then right to Route 13, the big highway leading to Los Santos. From there, he continues down highway 13 before it turns into Interstate 1. He continues on I-1 south until he reaches the Los Santos city limits. The trip is still peaceful. As Michael passes the first exit, the casino, and the Vinewood Bowl, he gets a call from Martin Madrazo.

Gener Guzman

Just after the call, the trip begins to get violent. Madrazo's gang begins to chase Michael down, so Michael has to speed up. The gang comes from the ranch just north of Los Santos and probably gets on the first ramp to chase Michael down. Michael comes on the second exit and speeds down to his house in Rockford Hills. On the way, the gang chases down and shoots Michael's red car all the time, causing panic along the way.

Once Michael reaches his house, he shoots all of the gang but ends up with too much stress. As a result, he escapes Los Santos quickly but then suddenly wants to finish off the gang at the ranch. Michael goes to the ranch and gets a call from Madrazo about the invasion. Then, Madrazo's gang begins fighting Michael followed by the cops. After the Madrazo's Ranch Battle, Michael escapes to Blaine County and loses the cops. He finally settles down on Trevor's trailer once again and then sleeps before working next week.

Michael wakes up on Sunday and begins to prepare for work on Monday. He then has to take a long drive to a new church and then prepare for the next mission. He learns how to swim and also goes to Ammu-Nation to stock up on armor and weapons.

Michael is also preparing to return to Los Santos this week since the exile is almost over. All he has to do is to work this week and then forgive Madrazo for the kidnapping. Then, the plan goes on to return to Los Santos and rob a bank for the big score. At last, the night is coming, and Michael returns to Trevor's trailer. Finally, he sleeps.

On Monday, Michael wakes up and prepares for his first mission of the week. He bets that the mission is the final one during the exile. He drives to work.

Michael, Franklin, and Trevor meet at Cape Catfish. Soon, Agents Haines and Dave Norton arrive. Haines wants the protagonists to steal a chemical weapon from the Humane Labs and Research, an IAA research facility. Haines is angry due to a lack of manpower (he claims that he told them that it's a six-man job, when he actually didn't). However, he and Norton agree to join the heist. Haines instructs Trevor and Franklin to handle transport, while Michael joins the agents in infiltrating the lab and gets ready for the swimming.

Michael and the agents, dressed in scuba suits, take a Dinghy down the San Andreas coast to a spot near Humane Labs and Research. The three dive and approach an underwater exhaust shaft; to gain entry, the player as Michael must use a torch to cut loose a grate over the shaft's access point. Once inside, the three swim through the shaft until they reach the interior of the lab. From there, the three advance through the halls. Michael is armed with a stun gun and is responsible for taking out the scientists and other employees encountered along the way.

After a while swimming underwater and taking out the scientists in the process, the three reach their destination. After convincing a scientist to open the lab door, Michael is able to grab the chemical weapon. An alarm is triggered and armed security guards begin to appear. Michael and the two FIB agents push through to the lab's garage area (Michael is now encouraged to use his regular arsenal). Outside is a refrigeration unit meant to transport the chemical weapon; Michael places the weapon in this container before getting picked up by the Cargobob.

The player is shifted to Trevor flying the Jetsam Cargobob Steve purchased with the money taken in The Paleto Score. Trevor lowers the Cargobob over the refrigeration unit. However, Haines suddenly insists that the heat is too great and that they call off the operation. Michael argues and Haines soon relents. He runs back into the lab's garage. There, he shoots himself in the leg, then presents himself as a hero to the arriving security agents. However, the United Liberty Paper Contact does not buy it and orders Haines to be detained.

With the refrigeration unit in tow, Trevor flies to Sandy Shores Airfield, lowers the container onto a waiting Flatbed, then lands the helicopter. Franklin and Michael confer with Dave, who then leaves with the semi truck. After Dave is gone, Michael checks his phone and sees that Martin Madrazo has accepted Michael's peace offering (the artifact Michael and Trevor stole in the mission Derailed). Michael celebrates with Franklin, excited that he can finally return to Los Santos. He takes the same road trip from Sandy Shores airfield back to his house.

Meanwhile, Trevor drives Patricia back to her husband. The radio in Trevor's Bodhi is automatically set to Los Santos Rock Radio, with "If You Leave Me Now" by Chicago setting the appropriate mood. As they drive, Patricia tells the crying Trevor that she will miss him but that this is for the best. Trevor leaves Patricia at Madrazo's ranch, but not before threatening a clearly frightened Martin. Patricia heads inside the house and Trevor drives off. At this point, the mission ends. Trevor takes his own road trip back to Floyd's apartment in Los Santos.

Trevor returns to Floyd's apartment. Outside the apartment, he runs into Floyd Hebert who tells Trevor that he can't come in. He cannot believe he is not allowed to come inside his second home in Los Santos, even though he has lived there ever since discovering Los Santos. Trevor pushes past Floyd and kicks open the apartment door.

Inside, he meets Debra, Floyd's girlfriend, who has just returned from a business trip and is completely furious at Trevor's presence in the apartment. Trevor insults Debra, pushing her into an even greater rage. Trevor's mood changes suddenly, and he begs Debra and Floyd to accept him for who he is. Debra continues to hurl insults, telling Floyd that "Bob" (presumably Debra's lover) was right about him, saying that he is "not a man at all". She demands that both Trevor and Floyd leave her home immediately, calling the former the latter's "weird friend"; when Trevor attempts to correct her, she pulls a pistol from a drawer in the kitchen, declaring that she is not afraid to use it and that Bob taught her. Enraged, Floyd grabs a knife from the kitchen counter while screaming "Fuck Bob!". Trevor gets angry and comments "You people are not very fucking nice!" as Trevor gets ready to kill the two residents in the apartment.

Floyd and Debra are then killed, and the apartment is now closed. Trevor, now covered in blood, staggers out of the front door and can no longer live in the apartment. Wade arrives and wants to go inside the apartment to see Floyd, but Trevor advises Wade against it. Instead, he and Wade get in Trevor's vehicle and drive to the Vanilla Unicorn. During the drive, Trevor explains that Floyd and Debra have "disappeared" and will probably not return. While driving in traffic, Trevor and Wade will engage in a conversation revealing some of Wade's backstory including first meeting Trevor and the disappearance (and implied murder) of his friends Daisy-Bell and Kush-Chronic on the way to The Gathering. Finally, the two nearly arrive at the club.

Trevor and Wade arrive at the Vanilla Unicorn, where Trevor instructs several of the strippers to take care of Wade. Trevor then heads to the office of the club's manager, Leon.

Gener Guzman

Trevor walks in and tells Leon he's about to "meet his new partner", before closing the door and killing Leon without anyone else noticing in order to avoid police attention.

Meanwhile, Michael is in his mansion in Rockford Hills and in a phone conversation with Lester. Lester tells Michael that Trevor has taken over the Vanilla Unicorn. Michael agrees to meet there to plan the next mission for tomorrow to come.

After Trevor takes over Vanilla Unicorn, Franklin is going to work. The mission is received by telephone like the previous Lester missions. The target now is a corrupt businessman called Enzo Bonelli; he is running a construction site in Downtown Los Santos. Bonelli has been involved in extortion, murder and labor racketeering and is rumored to retain some connections with the mafia. Lester wants him eliminated. Franklin needs to kill all the bodyguards who are protecting Bonelli in the unfinished building's lower floors. As soon as all they are dead, Franklin enters a construction elevator which takes him to the roof. More guards are protecting Bonelli. He tries to escape in a helicopter, but Franklin has to quickly take the helicopter down. A Rocket Launcher is one of the best choices, but if Franklin acts quickly enough, he can dispatch the helicopter's pilot, resulting in the helicopter losing control and crashing. Franklin then has to leave the area. He will use either the elevator or a parachute provided nearby. When he is far enough, Lester will call him to congratulate him for doing a good job.

Once Franklin has completed his last job of the day, Michael wants a new car to store in his garage, since he turned the red car away. He drives to the car dealership and finds out there is no favorite car to get, so he drives around and steals his favorite type of car back home.

The next morning, Michael gets ready for work but has one thing to do. He has to modify his black personal car back to where it was before his family went into exile.

Grand Theft Auto V

Trevor, Michael, and Franklin meet in Trevor's office in the Vanilla Unicorn. Soon, Lester arrives. They are there to plan the "Big One," the heist of the Union Depository. They decide that Michael and Franklin will survey the Union Depository Tower while Trevor and Lester will follow a pair of Securicars doing a practice run to the Depository. However, they must move quickly; they have a three hour window in which Michael and Franklin must complete their task while Trevor and Lester get to a helicopter and find the Securicars.

Michael and Franklin drive to the Tower and examine the Tower's front entrance and garage access. Both seem lightly guarded. Once their surveillance is complete, the player is shifted to Trevor, who is driving with Lester to Sandy Shores Airfield. There, they board Trevor's Frogger and fly towards Downtown Los Santos where they spot the Securicars moving west along Innocence Boulevard to survey the potential big score.

Trevor and Lester follow the Securicars as they navigate through downtown. Trevor suggests various places where the crew could attack the cars, but Lester rejects them all. Eventually, the Securicars pass through a tunnel beneath a skyscraper in Downtown. The Securicars remain out of sight for several moments. When they reappear, they enter the Union Depository through the garage entrance, ready to park inside.

Having chosen the tunnel as the spot to hit the Securicars, Lester now wants to find an escape route. He asks Trevor to hover over the nearby excavation site for the Los Santos Transit metro tunnel. Once Trevor has positioned the helicopter, Lester investigates the area. This done, Trevor takes Lester back to the Airfield while Michael drives Franklin back to the latter's home.

After the job is done and the big score surveyed, Michael returns back home. He sleeps. The next morning, he wakes up and decides to relax at home until his work begins.

Trevor visits Michael at his house and reveals his plan to bust Brad Snider out of prison. Michael, however, is reluctant to discuss Brad and this soon leads to a debate. While initially friendly, the two soon get into an argument about their respective futures. Michael intends to retire in peace, while Trevor accepts that a life of crime is all he has. Eventually, their dispute brings Trevor to the one question Michael hoped he would never ask, and Trevor asks Michael who was buried in his grave in North Yankton. Michael claims he never "gave it much thought." Trevor, becoming even more suspicious, finally snaps and threatens Michael, claiming he is "fucking dead," and storms out of the house. Michael, realizing what Trevor might be thinking, attempts to follow, but finds that Trevor has stolen his car. While Trevor is en-route to Sandy Shores Airfield, Michael calls him and attempts to talk him out of flying to North Yankton, but Trevor refuses and hangs up. Michael is then on the way with his newly stolen car.

Both men travel back to Ludendorff. Trevor via his plane at Sandy Shores Airfield (where he receives a call from Michael, and calls Ron) and Michael through Los Santos International Airport, (during the drive, Michael calls Trevor to convince him to stop, and to warn Dave Norton that Trevor knows about their secret). Michael arrives at the airport, where some men watch him check in. Once in North Yankton that night, Michael drives to the cemetery. Along the way, he has flashbacks about the events that took place in 2004, including convincing Amanda that they must accept the FIB's deal and move to Los Santos, as well as memories of the set up. Trevor calls Ron asking for a plane to use to take him across the country, and Ron confirms a plane is at the Airfield fueled up and ready to use. Trevor arrives at the Airfield and boards the plane to fly to North Yankton. While en-route, he receives a text message from Ron, warning him that Wei Cheng's men are looking for him. Trevor arrives first at the graveyard, finds "Michael's" grave, and starts digging it up. Michael finally arrives and finds Trevor digging up the grave. Michael attempts to talk Trevor out of opening the coffin, but the efforts proved to be fruitless. Trevor opens the coffin, and his suspicions are confirmed when he finds Brad's body inside. This proves that Brad has been dead since 2004, not in prison.

Through Michael's confession and a flashback, the true events of the Prologue come to light: the FIB caught up to Michael and offered him a deal to surrender Trevor and Brad in exchange for protection. The heist in turn was a set-up to lure the crew into the FIB. Brad was shot and killed by accident, when Brad walked into Dave's line of sight and took the bullet meant for Trevor, while Michael play-acted to convince Trevor he was mortally wounded as well.

Trevor and Michael have a standoff over the grave and argue whilst pointing pistols at each other, but before either one can shoot, the Triads arrive to capture Trevor. Trevor attempts to shoot Michael, but his gun jams. He throws the weapon at Michael and escapes through the cemetery gates while Michael fires at him. Michael must now return to his car whilst fighting off Cheng's henchmen, since the henchmen begin capturing Trevor's "boyfriend" Michael has to use his special ability with his pistol and eventually collects other weapons. He eventually reaches his car, but finds it has been immobilized by Trevor. At that moment, some Triad members arrive and order Michael out of the car at gunpoint. With no other option, Michael surrenders.

Meanwhile in the next morning, Trevor is flying back to Sandy Shores but takes a long way and turns around in the Pacific Ocean. During the flight, he receives a call from Cheng. The Triad boss states he has captured Michael and is prepared to kill him, unless Trevor surrenders his control of criminal activities in Blaine County to the Triads. Cheng thinks that this threat will work because he and his men mistakenly believe that Trevor and Michael are "ji laos" (gay lovers), and he threatens to kill Michael if Trevor does not co-operate. Trevor mocks Cheng for this assumption and sarcastically tells him to tell Michael "[he] loves him dearly" before hanging up. On the way, he receives a text message from Lamar Davis, telling him that he and Franklin Clinton just found the last car on Devin Weston's list, and would like him to join them.

The mission ends with Trevor landing back at Sandy Shores Airfield. From there, he uses Michael's black car to return to Los Santos and go to Lamar's house for the next job.

Meanwhile, Franklin pulls up in front of Lamar's house around the corner from his old safehouse on Forum Drive in Strawberry. He receives a call from Lamar. Lamar tells Franklin that he's stolen the final car in Weston's list, a Pegassi Monroe, and now has it nearby, behind Glass Heroes auto body shop. Franklin drives the two blocks and meets Lamar. The two drive the Monroe to Little Bighorn Avenue where Trevor is waiting with a Packer filled with the other cars the group have obtained for Weston. Franklin drives the Monroe onto the last remaining spot on the Packer. He, Lamar, and Trevor then begin the drive to the drop-off point, the Procopio Truck Stop north of Paleto Bay. The suggested GPS is almost 8 (7.93) miles in length.

Trevor, as the driver, goes north on the Los Santos Freeway. Due to the length of the drive, Franklin decides to take a nap. Trevor and Lamar talk about various topics, including Trevor's relationship with Michael De Santa. Beyond this conversation, the trip is initially uneventful, but as the group gets closer to the drop-off point, around the state prison, the police appear with a two-star wanted level and give chase. Franklin decides to unhitch the JB 700 and use its weapons to neutralize the police cars--Franklin has heard from Weston's lawyer that the 700 has "some new hardware on board." Trevor must keep the Packer steadily while Franklin makes his way along the cargo carrier. Franklin reaches the JB 700 and gets it off the Packer. At this point, Franklin uses the 700's caltrops and newly included guns to take out the police pursuit. During the chase, he uses both the caltrops and the mounted guns to take down police.

Once the police are gone, Franklin calls Molly Schultz. Soon, the crew arrives in Procopio Beach to find Schultz waiting for them alone. She tells Franklin that Weston has stayed away due to the heat the crew has collected. Additionally, Weston has invested the team's payment and will only give them their money once police attention dies down. Franklin rails at Schultz for the lack of payment, but she tells him to be grateful and drives off, leaving Franklin alone.

Following the conclusion of Pack Man, Franklin contacts Lester Crest about Michael's apparent disappearance. The two deduce that Michael has been abducted, with Lester tracing Michael's cell phone signal back to Los Santos after a brief trip to North Yankton. Lester suggests Franklin meet Trevor for possible information. At Franklin's request, Lester calls Trevor and asks him to meet Franklin at his old safehouse in Strawberry.

Upon arriving at the home, Trevor appears even more disturbed than usual, yelling at Franklin's aunt for example, and takes great offence at Franklin laughing at him after he trips over a low fence. Franklin asks Trevor if he knows what became of Michael in North Yankton, and the drug dealer informs him that they ran into Wei Cheng's men and he does not know if Michael survived the shootout or not. Franklin tells him that Michael is back in Los Santos and asks him for help in rescuing him. Trevor refuses and leaves (assaulting a Families Member in the process). That night, Franklin has to work through the night to save a life.

It is up to Franklin to rescue Michael, alone. While he does not have much to go on, he manages to pinpoint Michael's location by using an app on his phone called Trackify, which

Lester provides (this is the same app used during the offshore option of The Merryweather Heist). As Franklin tries to look for him, a gang watches Michael, who is hanging upside down in a meat-packing plant. Michael tries to tell Wei Cheng that he is not Trevor's ji lao (gay friend), but the triad leader refuses to believe the truth and turns on the machine and leaves when he decides Trevor will not be coming. Michael hangs on the way to death.

Upon arrival at the triads' hideout, a meat factory called Raven Slaughterhouse, Franklin arrives and begins shooting the enemies in order to save Michael. Somehow, the machine stops Michael from getting killed, saving him since Franklin is shooting the triads.

After shooting through the triads, Franklin turns a corner and sees Michael alive, yet strung up by his feet and soon to be joining the other swaying, upside-down meat carcasses as well, if he does not react quickly. Franklin kills a triad member pointing a gun towards Michael, threatening to kill him. Franklin then tosses Michael a pistol while players are given the option to switch from Franklin to Michael. If the players decide to switch to Michael, they will play as the latter who is still hanging upside-down as even more Triads burst into the room. One Thug charges at Franklin, tackles him to the floor and is about to stab him with a knife, Michael must save Franklin by shooting the Thug as fast as possible and has to be accurate with his special ability to avoid killing Franklin by accident. After both men clear out all of the Triads, Michael lowers himself to the ground and is shown to be in a large amount of pain with blood on his tank top and holding his side. After the protagonists escape the building, they find a Coquette and a Feltzer parked outside the factory. However, they soon find two triad members on their tail. Here, the player can kill either the triads or blow up the car that they are not escaping in. Using either way, Franklin and Michael then escape or kill the gangsters, and both of them head to

Michael's house. After arriving at Michael's house, the former bank robber thanks Franklin for saving him, before the two have a brief conversation and part ways. Michael then heads into his house, where he washes the blood off himself and changes into a clean suit the next morning.

After the triads nearly killed Michael, Michael arrives at Backlot City for work where he discovers Rocco Pelosi and his associate Gianni attacking Solomon. As Michael approaches, Pelosi yells at Solomon about honoring a contract, then he and his associate escape in Rocco's red Fugitive. Solomon asks Michael to track down and kill his two assailants. Michael agrees. He pursues Pelosi and Gianni and murders them both.

Once Michael has completed this part of the mission, he receives a call from Solomon, who thanks Michael for his help and asks Michael to come visit if he's free; he has the choice of. He accepts the invitation. Michael returns to Backlot City and finds Solomon in his office. Solomon shows Michael the end credits of Solomon's current project; Michael is now listed as a producer. He sits for a while appreciating what he's accomplished. As he leaves Solomon's office, he calls Amanda De Santa and leaves a message telling her he's finally achieved something in his life which is making a movie and thus ending the mission.

Michael returns to Los Santos International Airport where he parked his car earlier, but someone may have taken the car back. After finding out Michael loses his car, he finds another car for the garage. After stealing a new car, he parks his car in the house garage and goes to sleep before the weekend. Last, Michael spends his whole day having some Saturday fun.

Chapter 11

On Sunday, Michael continues to spend his fun in the house. He feels more bored because he misses his family. Other than staying home, he goes to church and has other fun too.

On Monday, Michael gets ready for work and finds the location. The start of work is located at the factory where Lester is waiting. Michael begins the drive there. He begins to feel so excited for more work and also wrapping other work before retiring once again.

Michael arrives at Darnell Bros. where he meets Lester. Soon, the duo are joined by FIB agents Dave Norton and Steve Haines. Haines explains that evidence regarding his illegal activity is starting to surface at the FIB as his detention at the hands of IAA has exposed him; he needs Michael to destroy that evidence, but the only way to do so is by breaking into the FIB Headquarters. Haines promises that if Michael performs this favor, he will personally delete Michael's FIB files. Michael tells Haines that this is the last job he will perform for him. Haines blithely agrees and he and Norton leave. Michael and Lester leave as well.

Michael and Lester drive to the FIB Headquarters. On the way, Lester lays out his plan. They will gain entrance to the building by assuming the identity of one of the building's janitors. Lester even has the man picked out, one Harvey Molina. Michael and Lester arrive at the exit of the Headquarters' parking garage. When Molina leaves the garage, the two follow him to his apartment on Las Lagunas Boulevard in West Vinewood. Michael follows Molina into his apartment, and purchases Molina's ID and overalls. Molina agrees and Michael leaves.

Michael and Lester return to Darnell Bros. where Franklin is waiting. In addition to Molina's ID and overalls, Lester also needs a physical copy of the architectural plans for the FIB Headquarters. These are in the possession of Chip Peterson, the building's designer, who has an office in Backlot City. Franklin agrees to tail Peterson to get the plans. Their business, for the moment, concluded, the mission ends for the rest of the day.

After the job, Michael finds the best cars he can find other than his personal car. He drives around with his personal black car and finds the best car. From there, he steals one from the parking lot in Rockford Hills just north of the shopping area. Meanwhile, other friends are gearing up to prepare for the next few jobs and missions that involve killing and weapons. Before Michael returns home, he eats at Burger Shot near Del Perro and returns home. At home, Michael goes on the TV and turns on to watch the film in the evening.

Alone in his mansion, Michael falls asleep while watching a film. When he wakes up the next morning, Jimmy has appeared. Jimmy first apologizes for spiking Michael's drink, then proceeds to blame his father for his own shortcomings before ultimately admitting that he misses his dad. He also tells Michael that Amanda is unhappy with her new life with Fabien. Motivated, Michael decides to reunite his estranged family after a long family exile.

Michael and Jimmy drive to the nearby Bean Machine, where they find Amanda and Fabien. Fabien dismisses Michael and insults Amanda and Jimmy. Michael stops himself from striking Fabien, only for Amanda to get fed up with Fabien and outright ask Michael to attack him. Michael grabs the FruitBook laptop of a nearby customer and smashes it against the yoga instructor's face. Amanda is initially angry at Michael, but then admits that she misses him. She asks that they seek counseling. Michael agrees. Amanda tells Michael that she'll meet him at the office of Dr. Isiah Friedlander. She then helps off a groggy Fabien. Overall, the three out of four members of the family are reunited, but there is one more missing to go.

Next, Michael and Jimmy go to find Tracey. She is at Blazing Tattoo on Vinewood Boulevard, where she is begging Lazlow Jones to be allowed to reappear on Fame or Shame; he says he will do so if she gives him a blowjob. At this point, Michael and Jimmy appear. Michael, outraged by what he's just heard as well as Lazlow's previous behavior in the mission Fame or Shame, attacks Lazlow, forcibly piercing Lazlow's nose, ear and brow, then tattooing a penis on Lazlow's chest or back (by choice). Finally, Michael cuts off Lazlow's trademark ponytail and demands that Lazlow gives Tracey what she wants without having to give him a blowjob. Tracey, impressed by her father's devotion, agrees to go with him and Jimmy.

Michael and his children drive to Dr. Friedlander's clinic in Pacific Bluffs, where Amanda is waiting. In the ensuing therapy session, Michael and Amanda become progressively more angry with each other while Jimmy and Tracey studiously ignore their parents' yelling. While little seems to be resolved in the session, once back outside Friedlander's office, Amanda agrees to return home and give their relationship another shot. Michael drives his family home, and the mission ends with Amanda threatening to move into the Rockford Hills Hotel if they find Trevor waiting for them. After all, the family is finally reunited forever.

After the mission ends, Trevor passes out drunk in his underpants on a little island east of Palomino Highlands with several bodies of Lost MC members seen lying around the area. This means that Trevor may have killed the bikers while drunk before passing out.

Meanwhile, Franklin is standing just outside the Mile High Club construction site in Downtown Los Santos. He follows architect Chip Peterson through the site and up an elevator into the higher stories. There, Franklin takes Peterson's briefcase by killing him, incapacitating him with a stealth attack, or pointing a gun at him and then returns to Darnell Bros. where Michael and Lester are waiting. Lester reviews the architectural plans to FIB Headquarters and describes two possible ways of infiltrating the building. The roof entry method has been picked in order to eliminate the extra heist setup mission stealing a fire truck.

After picking the roof entry, Tracey calls Michael and says that she is being followed by a creepy stalker, who she met on the internet. Michael goes to the Vinewood Plaza to meet Tracey, then they both need to go to several locations looking for the stalker, who is driving a purple Tornado. After the stalker is found, the player can choose to kill him or spare him. If he is spared, Tracey will be happy that Michael didn't kill her "fan" and ask her father if she can bleet about this on the internet, Michael will say no, arguing that this put Tracey in this situation to begin with. If he is killed, Tracey will be unhappy and Michael will say that she needs to grow up and take care of herself. After this, Michael takes Tracey back home. From there, he stays at home and waits until bedtime, watching TV and drinking. Last, he sleeps.

Michael wakes up the next day and drives to the office. After arriving at Solomon's office, Michael is surprised to find Devin Weston and his assistant Molly Schultz there. Devin proceeds to explain that, being one of the two shareholders (the other being Solomon Richards' "idiot" son) in Richards Majestic Productions, he plans to pull the plug on their latest movie in order to receive a massive insurance payout. With that money, he will pay Solomon's son to agree to tear the film lot down in order for Devin to build condos, tax free.

Solomon tries to protect the movie reel, but Molly forcibly snatches the film from his arms. Michael follows Molly who is taking the movie reel (Meltdown) to an unknown discreet offshore location by plane. Refusing to surrender his first film, Michael storms out of Solomon's office and pursues her on the way to the airport.

By the time Michael arrives at Los Santos International Airport, Molly has received a police escort team paid for by Weston. Michael pursues Molly on the airport runways, causing huge amounts of mayhem along the way. Eventually the police order Molly to pull over, but they are ignored until Molly stops at Devin Weston's hangar, where a Jet is waiting for them to board with the film. Molly, who is aware of Michael pursuing her, runs into the hangar in a panic, where she is sucked into the jet engine, dropping the film. Michael collects the film and must lose his wanted level, since the cops are now pursuing him for entering a restricted area. Michael successfully escapes from the police, concluding the mission.

In a post-mission phone call with Solomon, Michael learns that there were backups of the film due to it being shot digitally, making the chase, Devin's plans and Molly's death all for naught. However, he is soon cheered up by Solomon announcing that Meltdown will have a full-fledged Vinewood premiere. The movie is then nearly done.

Despite Solomon saying that the invitations are on their way, "The Bureau Raid" and its immediate follow-up missions must be completed before the premiere.

After the morning job, Michael eats lunch at Burger Shot near the Del Perro beach. After lunch, he goes to Ammu-Nation to buy more armor and weapons in preparation for the FIB raid. He surfs the internet and then eats at Cluckin Bell for dinner at Rockford Plaza. Michael spends the last few hours driving home and watching TV before sleeping.

The next morning, Michael and Franklin are getting ready for the heist tonight at the FIB building. They find good equipment throughout the day and everywhere like Ammu-Nation.

Grand Theft Auto V

After finding equipment for the FIB raid, Michael arrives at the garment factory in time to see Lester Crest preparing to torch the place, having decided that completing the upcoming FIB raid will result in the need to find a new base of operations.

Franklin arrives during Michael and Lester's discussion, and Michael and Franklin soon depart for the NOOSE Headquarters (government facility) near Tataviam Mountains and off Palomino Freeway. After heading to the NOOSE building, the crew sleeps until midnight. The pilot, gunman and Franklin get in the helicopter, while Michael flies to the jump zone in the form of an imaginary corona in order to make a landing right on the building roof.

After the pilot takes control of the helicopter, Michael and the others then jump out. Michel parachutes onto the FIB building and cuts out of the glass panes to let the crew infiltrate the building. Once the crew is inside the building, Michael has to blow up the server room's door. He must also find a way to hack in order to break inside the building.

Michael hacks the server terminal. The programs are on the cellphone, so Michael connects it to the machine. He gains control of the computer. The hacker will guide Michael through the process, or be clueless depending on their skill. Here are the steps:

Open My Computer.

Select the External Device (J:)

Open HackConnect.exe.

HackConnect.exe is an IP hacking program. The red number combination (e.g. 44.22.77.98) shows the correct combination. Michael must select this set of 4 numbers on the screen and has one minute to do so.

Select BruteForce.exe.

Gener Guzman

BruteForce.exe is a password decryption program. Red letters per column indicate the password. Select them until the word with red letters is formed.

Finally, a program called Down&Out.exe will appear on the menu. Select it and a message such as "Copying file N:\Townley M\PalettoBayBankJob.docu" should be seen. The hacker will take it from there. This is how Michael hacks for the raid.

After hacking, a security team has been deployed. Michael and Franklin must shoot the team until the download completes. They see a glance of the download process. During the process, the chopper is brought in, but a Buzzard shows up and fires a rocket, destroying it and hitting a couple of floors. Next, a team with smoke bombs starts attacking the crew, so Michael's "Bullet-time" ability for greater precision and a perfect shot is best for the fight.

Once the download completes, Michael will take the connected cell phone back and the crew flees. He kills FIB agents along the way, as the crew escapes the FIB building. The sprinkler system reduces visibility; depending on the hacker, they will or cannot shut down the fire suppression system. A helicopter comes to the ground as the crew fends off the enemies.

After going down, the crew must rappel outside the building. All opposing units, both on the ground and in the air are on the scene, waiting for the crew. During the descent, the hacker will warn the crew that an air unit is on sight. It is another Buzzard, which will have miniguns. Michael's ability to shoot the pilot's head with strong weapons causes the helicopter to go down. Michael advances and rappels again before killing the last group of units on the ground.

The crew heads over to the meeting spot to get out. The escape varies based on the driver chosen. If an experienced driver is chosen, they'll be already there in an ambulance, thus fooling the cops and escaping clean. But if an inexperienced driver is chosen they won't be at the pickup spot on time, forcing the crew to fend off more cops and will show up late in a Burrito and the player will have to escape a 4 star wanted level. Franklin gets in the vehicle, and escapes the cops if any, and drives to "Franklin's" house in Vinewood Hills for a debrief. The getaway vehicle will be taken away to be disposed of upon completion.

After the FIB raid, Michael will exit the dwelling with the intent to call Dave Norton. The total take is constant at $331,985. Of this, Lester takes his standard 12% ($39,839), while Michael uncharacteristically turns down his share. The crew is then left with their respective cut, leaving Franklin with anywhere between $150,000 - $240,000.

After the completion of the FIB raid, Michael and Dave meet at one of the lookout points at the Kortz Center as Dave was none too impressed with how Michael and Trevor attacked Merryweather and they have discussed things. Michael confirms that the raid at the FIB headquarters was successful and insists that Dave honor the promise to let Michael and his friends go. Dave begins to explain that there has been a change of plans, but he is promptly interrupted by the arrival of Steve Haines and Andreas Sanchez; Haines orders Sanchez to arrest Michael and Dave so that he can cover up the raid on the FIB and satisfy his desire for revenge for his career record being completely ruined by Michael. A four-way Mexican standoff occurs between the men. Dave attempts to talk them down. However, before they can lower their guns, a group of IAA agents, led by the U.L. Paper Contact, arrive and attempt to arrest all four of them. Almost immediately, a rival group of corrupt FIB agents also appear. Haines demands to know who sent the tactical team, and Sanchez betrays his boss by revealing that he is a double agent and that the FIB team is working with him. Just as Haines complains against the IAA about their corrupt crimes when the U.L. Paper demands everyone to surrender, the situation escalates further when a Buzzard Attack Chopper, operated by mercenaries from Merryweather, suddenly arrives. The situation quickly explodes into violence; Haines gets shot in the leg by an FIB agent (the same leg he had shot himself in during the raid at Humane Labs and Research), and in turn, shoots and kills Sanchez in the process, leading to an all-out firefight.

Haines quickly escapes. Michael and Dave attempt to help each other, but are almost immediately separated. Michael fights his way towards Dave, killing the FIB team and IAA agents all together. But soon, another Merryweather helicopter, a Buzzard, appears and Michael must retreat to cover before the Buzzard makes a lot of shots at the wall.

Meanwhile, Trevor is hiding in another part of the museum. Trevor kills the pilot of the Buzzard with a sniper rifle. He then makes himself known to Michael, who then asks if he has come to kill him. Trevor says he is not there to kill Michael at the moment, but he also will not allow the FIB or anyone else to deny Trevor the right to take his former partner's life. Trevor returns to the assault and provides support for Dave, taking out enemies in the museum's courtyard while Dave crosses the area. Trevor complains why he is saving the man who killed Brad and would want to kill him next, before Michael explains that Dave is their only hope to get off the FIB's case now due to Haines' betrayal and escape after failing his attempted arrest. Once Dave is in cover, As Trevor, he must help Michael get down to the courtyard, clearing out FIB agents and another Merryweather helicopter. As Michael, he must make their way down to the courtyard, fighting through FIB agents and Merryweather troops in order to reach Dave.

During the gun battle, Michael demands to know more about the FIB team that were sent here, Dave explains that they are a corrupt division that have either gone rogue or on the IAA payroll (which could mean that those FIB agents are all double agents working with the IAA, even though they were sent by Sanchez). Trevor then wonders why Merryweather is involved in this three way war battle, and Dave complains that his previous activities that involved robbing Merryweather's stolen goods have got them involved in their crimes and it'll be difficult to avoid anymore involvement in Merryweather's operations.

Once the two have completed these particular objectives, Michael flees the museum with Dave. The FIB agent tells Michael that he will be in touch, then leaves. Michael must escape on his own, a process which involves either evading or destroying one final Merryweather helicopter. Trevor calls Michael to have a conversation in private, and suggests that Michael meet him behind a pawn shop in Morningwood.

Upon arrival at the pawn shop, the two argue. Trevor states that he no longer trusts Michael, but that he still wants to finish off their last big score, the Union Depository. The two call Lester Crest, who states he will start organizing the heist. Trevor threatens Michael a final time, then leaves. This makes Michael feel Trevor does not want the big score.

Afterwards, Michael calls Dave, who explains that the affairs of the IAA will be dealt with using Sanchez as the scapegoat of the plot. However, Haines refuses to cooperate until Trevor is eliminated as a sacrificial lamb. Michael expresses reluctance to kill his former partner as he finishes the call. After all, everyone is done with work for the week.

Michael and Trevor both go to Ammu-Nation at different locations to get their guns in order to prepare for the big score as well as other emergency purposes that create some jobs. This is because they experience the need for weapons during many of the jobs.

For the weekend, everyone stays home for the morning and sometimes out. They examine what is to come for the last few missions before they move on to their next tasks.

Gener Guzman

After spending the whole weekend, Franklin returns home and gets ready to sleep. He likes to take a look at Los Santos in a telescope from home. As the night passes, he wakes up the next morning and welcomes someone knocking on the door.

Franklin is visited by Tanisha who tells him that Stretch set Lamar up with the Ballas, who are holding Lamar hostage at the Paleto Forest Sawmill. Franklin is initially reluctant to rescue Lamar, because he feels that he spends all his time getting Lamar out of trouble, but Tanisha asks Franklin to do it for her. Tanisha leaves and Franklin phones Lester and asks him to contact Michael and Trevor to help him rescue Lamar (despite the current state of their friendship). Franklin, Trevor, and Michael arrive at the sawmill and take up attack positions. They proceed to kill the Ballas and Franklin brings Lamar back home to Forum Drive. When they get there, Lamar and Franklin get into a small dispute, with Franklin recalling the many occasions he keeps Lamar out of trouble, only for Lamar to walk straight back into trouble. Franklin advises Lamar to remain civilized and stay out of trouble, and to abandon his "gang banging" lifestyle and get a real job, before giving him $50. Lamar leaves, and Franklin is confronted by Steve Haines and Dave Norton, who order Franklin to kill Trevor, due to his violent behavior and general liability. Franklin refuses, asking them to recruit Michael to do it instead, but Dave reveals that Michael can't because Trevor doesn't trust him and won't let Michael go near him. Steve and Dave drive off, and the mission ends, with the night coming up.

Jimmy texts Franklin after the mission, telling him about his father's movie premiere. The premiere is scheduled for tomorrow at a Vinewood theater.

Chapter 12

A movie called Meltdown is on the way to being premiered at the Oriental Theater tonight. However, the big score must be prepared and done soon before the next tasks begin.

For most of the day leading to the premiere, everyone is preparing for the big score in terms of having enough weapons and ammo to fight large amounts of enemies in the way. They also practice shooting and examine the Union Depository to determine the battlefield. In the middle of the day, Michael eats lunch at Burger Shot near the pier. Everyone spends the rest of the day preparing for both the big score and the Meltdown premiere. That night, Michael goes to the clothing store in Rockford Hills and rides the limo with Jimmy to the premiere.

Michael and Jimmy attend the Meltdown premiere at the Oriental Theater on Vinewood Boulevard. On the red carpet, Michael notices that Amanda and Tracey are nowhere to be seen; Devin Weston appears and, under the belief Michael murdered Molly Schultz, coyly hints that the latter are in trouble - specifically, that he has sent Merryweather agents to deal with Michael's family. The two girls in the family must be in trouble, missing the premiere.

Michael rushes to his house within an hour and fights off several waves of agents to keep his family safe. After being incapacitated by one agent, Jimmy comes to Michael's rescue and kills the agent by bludgeoning his head with his bong. Michael tells his family to lay low while he makes some calls. By the time the family has been rescued, Michael already misses most of his sleep because saving the family is important, but he has to make big score plans later.

Gener Guzman

After sleeping in the morning, Michael, Trevor, Franklin and Lester reunite in the Vanilla Unicorn to discuss how they are going to proceed with the Union Depository heist. They discuss which method they should use and which crew members they should choose. Either act like the security guards, get in, take the gold, and escape to the truck, or drill inside, take the gold, and escape with the helicopters before landing the gold on the train.

In this method, Franklin uses a Cutter to reach the Union Depository vault from the underground, so he can steal the gold directly from the vault. Michael will be at the front of the bank, distracting the cops and Trevor uses his helicopter to take the gold to the Train.

After planning, Michael receives a call from Jimmy, but as soon as Michael answers, he realizes something is wrong. Jimmy is talking to a stranger who is mad at him for trolling on the internet. Jimmy asks his captors if they are taking him up Banham Canyon in a Landstalker just to punish him, which Michael overhears, revealing his location.

At first, Michael refuses to do the job but notices he is doing something with the family, so he accepts. Michael follows Jimmy's directions to the Landstalker in which Jimmy is being held, all the while listening into a conversation between Jimmy and one of the men holding him; that man is a comedy writer who Jimmy has been harassing on Bleeter. Once Michael locates the Landstalker, he damages it to the point that Jimmy's captors exit the Landstalker and flee. Michael gets in the Landstalker and drives Jimmy to the Richman Hotel.

After doing one more job for Jimmy, Michael drives home and prepares for the night. Meanwhile, Franklin is also being ready for sleep too.

Franklin wakes up the next day and gets ready for the first big score heist setup which involves stealing the driller. He goes to the driller for the setup.

Grand Theft Auto V

In order to steal the Cutter without being noticed by the guards, Franklin must use stealth mode to knock out all the guards before entering the Cutter. He uses both stealth and suppressed pistol to make the shooting quieter and not alert the guards.

Once all of the guards are neutralized, Franklin enters the Cutter and drives it out of the yard while calling Lester and he will direct Franklin to deliver the drill to a parking lot near the Union Depository. Once the Cutter is delivered the mission is complete.

After delivering the Cutter, Michael has to go to the railroad cabin and use stealth to knock out the guards. He then goes to the cabin and switches the train tracks to divert the next train. Once the train has arrived, Michael calls Trevor to tell him that the train is ready. Trevor is ready and uses the magnet in the Skylift to steal the freight engine and any of the flatbed carriages and deliver it both in the Sandy Shores Airfield. Once the train is delivered in the airfield, the setup is complete, but there is one more setup to do before the big score.

For the rest of the day today, Franklin is best at getting a getaway vehicle. He finds the best car possible and goes to Los Santos customs to make it more efficient to escape the police and also armored to keep the cops from catching the getaway. The next morning, everyone is ready for the heist, and the getaway vehicle is ready. Everyone meets at the Vanilla Unicorn office at the back to discuss and get ready for the heist. They begin the big score.

First, Michael drives the Oracle to the Union Depository with the gunman assigned. Franklin, waits outside the underground vault in an HVY Cutter. Michael and the other gunman will come at the front door and distract the cops. Franklin uses the drills by pressing a button to create a huge opening on the bank vault. When the hole is created, he parks the Cutter an ample distance away and plants explosive charges (such as Sticky Bombs) on the two vault doors, then stands back and detonates them. A NOOSE team arrives and starts abseiling into the tunnel. Franklin defends the gunman assigned against the NOOSE team by shooting at them while the gunman pushes the gold carts. He focuses on the officers, and uses a good gun like an Advanced Rifle with extended ammo to eliminate the enemies faster. A minigun may be helpful as well due to its rapid-fire damage and no need for reloading. After the gunman pushes the second cart into position, Trevor starts to fly north of Los Santos to Blaine County, the gunman with Franklin will find his own way out. Meanwhile, Michael is in a heavy shootout against the cops. He focuses on health and ammo, as there are too many officers to fight, and may take five hours of gunfighting. He keeps fighting the cops, as Franklin will become available again when Michael arrives at the foot bridge. While advancing, a Buzzard Attack Chopper will appear where the two destroy it quickly with the RPG or minigun, as it will use the rockets to kill the team. After destroying it, they advance to the underground parking lot where the getaway vehicle was stashed while fending off the police. Michael and Franklin get too tired fighting off the police.

In the parking lot, a NOOSE team will appear, in their Grangers. The two destroy the vehicles quickly with an RPG, grenades or sticky bombs (be careful not to hit the getaway vehicle). After killing them, they get in the car with Franklin being the driver and lose the police. With Lester's advice, Franklin drives underground on the big score site and goes to the sewing system nearby that leads to the subway tunnel where they lose the cops from there.

After the wanted level is cleared, Trevor continues piloting his helicopter and follows the pilot assigned. However, Merryweather Security appears in helicopters, and Lester must destroy them. He keeps the helicopter steady for Lester to get a clean shot, but be careful not to let both gold carts under the helicopters detach, or have Trevor wasted, or else the mission will fail and be careful going through the wind farm. The other gold helicopter will speed up considerably so the player will need to do this while maintaining speed and altitude. After destroying the helicopters, Trevor locates the train on the radar and detaches the gold cart in the train car. Finally, he flies to McKenzie Field Hangar to complete the mission and the heist.

After the gold has been dropped off, both Trevor and Lester will fly to the McKenzie Field Hangar to meet with the rest of the crew for a debrief. Lester is in good spirits for the entire ride and has obviously never been so thrilled his entire life. For the debrief everyone else is in good spirits as well contrary to the meeting in the Subtle Method. Michael then proceeds to break the mood and soon after tells the crew to avoid spending large amounts of cash until the gold is sold with Trevor restating in a more aggressive manner. The heist ends with Michael, Trevor and Lester flying away to the new location of the gold; Franklin departing in his new getaway vehicle and the hired crew members flying away in the second helicopter.

After the big score, Franklin is visited by Devin Weston, who orders him to kill Michael. Franklin refuses, telling him Steve Haines has already ordered him to kill Trevor and that he cannot kill both. Devin reiterates his order to kill Michael and leaves. Franklin then has the option to choose which option he wants, beginning one of the final missions: Something Sensible, The Time's Come or The Third Way. Note that Lester will not pay the protagonists the proceeds of this heist until after the final mission is completed. The score is almost done.

Agents Steve Haines and Dave Norton previously tasked Franklin to kill Trevor, due to him being a liability, despite having saved both of them. Later, Devin Weston shows up at Franklin's house and tells Franklin to kill Michael, due to him also being a liability, for Molly's death and his failure to kill Michael's family. Weston then gives Franklin three options. A, listen to the FIB Agents, B, Weston himself, or C, try to save both Michael and Trevor. After Weston leaves, Franklin is given a set of three options on his cell phone, Kill Trevor (A), Kill Michael (B), or Deathwish (C). Choosing C leads to this mission, and Franklin quickly calls Lester, who tells him to discuss things at his place and to save his two best friends.

After choosing option C, Franklin meets Lester at his home where he tells him how Haines wants Trevor killed and Weston wants Michael killed. They at first, seem to not have any hope of thinking of a way where both Trevor and Michael survive. But after brainstorming, Lester comes up with a plan to avoid having to kill either of them. The plan is to lead the FIB and Merryweather into a trap at the foundry under the pretense of melting down the gold there from the Union Depository heist. Haines' FIB unit seeks redemption for the internal affairs incident so they participate in the raid, and Merryweather is sent to recover the stolen gold.

Franklin picks up Lamar Davis at his home and they go to the foundry, with Lamar having newfound respect for Franklin for doing this for both Trevor and Michael rather than himself. Lamar waits outside and keeps a lookout while Franklin goes inside to find Michael and Trevor arguing and about to kill each other—Michael with a Heavy Sniper and Trevor with a Combat MG, but he easily stops them. Lamar then warns Franklin about the FIB agents approaching fast towards the foundry and their location, and Michael, Trevor, and Franklin work together to kill all of the FIB agents and Merryweather mercenaries sent against them in one swift ambush. Various stages of the ensuing battle require that the player provide backup to certain characters. First, Lamar will radio that he is being overrun and needs help. Franklin must get out to the foundry entrance where he dropped off Lamar, and kill the FIB agents attacking Lamar before he is wasted and the mission fails. Then Michael, after not receiving a response from Trevor, must go over to where Trevor was positioned to check on him before being wasted, causing the mission to fail. Because Franklin says that he has to stay with Lamar, Michael leaves his sniping position and fights his way to reach Trevor who gets back up (supposedly being knocked out, and having not been shot possibly because the agents assumed they killed him, according to Trevor himself). Then, Michael and Trevor must fight their way out of the foundry and help Franklin kill off any remaining FIB and Merryweather forces in the area.

Finally, after all of the agents and mercenaries are killed, the trio take a moment to catch their breaths. Then Franklin brings up the fact that they still have work to do, namely pick off 'friends' who either betrayed or tried to kill the trio in the past. He then calls Lester for their whereabouts. This determines where the friends will go next to save themselves.

Michael lists Steve Haines, who had previously made the three, Lester and others commit various crimes in order to advance his own career before attempting to betray Michael to the FIB and have him arrested as the raid in the Humane Labs destroyed his career record when he was arrested. He then asked Franklin to kill Trevor as a scapegoat and not participate in the Bureau Raid due to hostility between Michael and Trevor during that period. Haines and Dave also rationalized that due to Trevor's involvement with Merryweather attacks and the Triads shootout in North Yankton would serve as justification that Trevor was not a sensible person and needed to be killed. However, Trevor should not be killed at all.

Trevor initially suggests killing Dave Norton as well, most likely for killing Brad in North Yankton nine years ago and for being Haines' lackey, and unbeknownst to him, telling Michael and later Franklin to kill Trevor; however, Michael tells him that they need Norton alive as he can clear their names so no one comes after them later. In addition, Norton was betrayed by both Haines and Sanchez, Haines for attempting to arrest him and Michael to silence them both and Sanchez for causing the massive internal affairs incident after revealing himself as a double agent and working for a rival FIB unit. As Norton shifted the blame on Sanchez for the IAA incident after the latter's death, Haines' death will clear them all of the whole incident completely as Norton told Michael "History is written by the living."

Michael then nominates Devin Weston, who had similarly employed all three and Lamar to steal various expensive cars and cheated out of a payday, then tried to shut down a movie that Michael produced and in retaliation to the accidental death of his lawyer Molly Schultz, later sent mercenaries from Merryweather to try to kill Michael's family, only for Amanda, Tracey and Jimmy to survive, and had later asked Franklin to kill Michael. Indirectly, he was also responsible for Lamar's plight with Stretch as Lamar sought an alternate source of income and Stretch used it to ambush them when he refused to pay them.

Franklin brings up Wei Cheng, who had decided against working with Trevor and his drug manufacturing enterprise and work instead with the O'Neil Brothers (Trevor had already killed off The Lost MC and the Aztecas including key members Ortega, Johnny Klebitz, Terry Thorpe, Clay Simons and possibly Ashley Butler prior and later killed off another chapter of the Lost MC before moving to Los Santos), all except Elwood, Walton and Wynn (who drove off to meet Cheng and his son Tao), were later killed at their ranch which was subsequently blown up and their operation was destroyed by Trevor, resulting in Elwood seeking revenge on Trevor by attempting to blow up Floyd's condo with anti-tank rockets, where Trevor was residing in, which attracted Franklin's attention (As Franklin and his dog Chop pursued them, Elwood, Walton and Wynn were later killed following their own vengeance against Trevor). In retaliation to Elwood's murder, Cheng and his Triads had attempted to kill Trevor by holding Michael hostage, believing the two to be gay lovers, although Michael was saved by Franklin with the two killing all the witnesses during their escape (Trevor and Michael weren't on speaking terms due to Trevor discovering the truth behind Brad's fate in North Yankton during a botched robbery). Even if Tao lives, Tao's ineptitude as seen when dealing with Trevor would make it easy to avoid retribution from the Triads as both instances Trevor met Tao, he is seen completely intoxicated and unfit to be Wei's successor. Then, the final job keeps going and going until every enemy is killed.

Trevor asks Franklin about Stretch, a long time imprisoned Chamberlain Gangster Families OG, had begun associating with a rival gang, the Ballas, while incarcerated in the Bolingbroke Penitentiary and, after being released (and after Stretch ironically killed D due to D setting up Franklin and Lamar for a previous grievance), had attempted to get Franklin and Lamar killed by the Ballas by luring them into a trap (fortunately they were saved by Trevor who had accompanied him). After Stretch finds out Franklin was boosting cars for Devin, Franklin refused to submit to his demands. Stretch later uses the situation to deceive Lamar in that they could buy weed from the Ballas at a Paleto Bay sawmill but made an ambush for Lamar who was in need of income after Devin refused to pay for the cars; Franklin, Trevor and Michael saved him. Franklin is initially surprised at Trevor for suggesting Stretch, but agrees that he needs to be taken care of. Then, the plan keeps going and going.

Lester tells the group that Agent Haines is filming his television show on the Del Perro Pier; Trevor agrees to this job as he has hated Haines since the moment they met. Lester then locates Stretch, through his phone signal, at the B.J. Smith Recreation Center, and Michael is put on this assignment as he had no known run-ins with Stretch, which would throw suspicion away from Franklin. Lester then informs Franklin that Wei Cheng's son Tao used his credit card at the beach club in Pacific Bluffs; Franklin is unknown to the Triads, so he'd be the perfect candidate for the murder. Lester agrees to contact the three later via headset when he locates Weston. The three each split up, locate, and take out their targets, evading or wiping out the Ballas (Michael), the police (Trevor) and the Triads (Franklin) in the process. No matter when Trevor kills Haines, he will always be the one to kidnap Weston, regardless when the other two killed their targets.

Stretch is found on a basketball court next to the BJ Smith Recreational Center with several Ballas gangbangers around. During the conversation, Stretch states that Lamar is disrespectful and is trying to break the order of things (stating that he was a fool since they met and even though they were friends - although Stretch disagrees). Michael then comments to the others that he knows which one Stretch is, he then gets out of his car and interrupts their chat. Stretch quickly realizes that he is friends with Franklin (he already learned about Trevor from the Ballas) and orders his friends to kill him. However, some split up and Michael kills Stretch easily before either killing or escaping the Ballas and informing Franklin that Stretch is dead and is not a problem any more (to which Franklin comments that they were never friends since he has screwed them from the start).

Stretch is relatively easy to eliminate, as he and the guards are mostly packing pistols. Taking too long to escape, however, will make the surviving Ballas get in their cars and chase you and thus forcing Michael to take them all out. Michael kills Stretch with a melee attack and the rest of the Ballas with the guns in order to defend the territory for Franklin.

Agent Haines is found on the Ferris wheel on the boardwalk shooting a video for a TV show. Him and a cameraman are in one of the Ferris wheel's cars.

Grand Theft Auto V

Trevor asks Lester to patch into Haines' microphone, since he wants a last reminder of what an "annoying prick" the agent is. Haines, meanwhile, is focusing on The Underbelly Of Paradise with some shots and good quotes. If Trevor gets too close, Haines figures out why Trevor is here (or how maybe) and orders his death, but Trevor shoots the corrupt FIB agent (either with a sniper from a far distance or any other weapon), killing him. Once Trevor has killed Haines, he will have a two-star wanted level to evade. Once Trevor has lost the police, he informs Lester that Haines is dead and asks the whereabouts of Weston. Lester states that he has found him at his house in the Tongva Hills where Merryweather is guarding him, Lester begins to describe Weston's home, but Trevor ignores his word and heads towards the mansion.

Killing Cheng is last. He is found surrounded by bodyguards as well as his son Tao in a motorcade of vehicles leaving the Pacific Bluffs Country Club. As soon as Franklin arrives or gets too close, Cheng discovers this and orders his men to drive off, which he does, but Franklin follows. Tao can be killed as well and if he dies before his father, the elder Cheng will react to his death very unpleasantly. Eventually, Franklin kills Cheng (in any way, and loses any attracted wanted level) and informs that the Triads are no more, to which Trevor replies that they are not going to have anyone to sell super weapons to but that it does not matter anyway.

As soon as Franklin arrives, Cheng and his bodyguards are getting into Washington, escorted by two Cavalcades. Franklin can tail the Cheng motorcade normally and can even go faster than them, until he rams or attacks a vehicle, then the Triads will start driving faster and shooting out of their vehicles. After killing Cheng, Franklin still has to outrun any surviving Triads in their Cavalcade, which is no easy task, since his bike is slow. It is most likely that he will be needed to kill the Triads instead of outrunning them. This is because the Triads are to be done with harming and almost killing for no reason at all.

Alternatively, Franklin can target Cheng's car (pre-placed Sticky Bombs, a Minigun, or an RPG - though the sticky bomb is required for the gold medal), killing him before he leaves the parking lot, avoiding the trouble of having to chase down the fleeing convoy on the highway. Kill Cheng with a sticky bomb to get a gold medal. To obtain the gold medal achievement easily, prepare the sticky bombs while riding towards the club, trigger Franklin's special ability as soon as the convoy is in sight and aim one sticky bomb per vehicle (the slow motion will increase the player's accuracy and allow better targeting). He detonates the bomb/

Trevor must make his way through a squad of eight Merryweather guards patrolling the house to get to Weston. He can either take a subtle approach by sneaking around and knocking out the guards (or killing them with a suppressed weapon), or he can take a direct route and attack the guards head on. After Trevor makes his way through the Merryweather security forces, he finds Weston hiding in a trunk near the pool. Trevor punches and knocks him unconscious, and carries him to his Tornado in the drive-way. Trevor throws Weston in the trunk, shuts it, and drives the car to meet up with Franklin and Michael.

As Trevor drives out of Weston's driveway, he informs Franklin and Michael that he has the billionaire and suggests they meet at a cliff at the Chiliad Mountain State Wilderness and "make him disappear." During the drive, Weston regains consciousness to find himself in the trunk. Realizing what Trevor is doing, Weston attempts using flattery and bribes to bargain for his life, offering Trevor anything his immense wealth can acquire if he joins his private army. Trevor tells Weston that he doesn't care about bribes; he just wants to kill him. The billionaire then attempts to bribe Trevor with money, but the drug dealer reminds Weston about his own successful business company before reminding him that he is already gold rich and tells Weston that he has nothing to offer. Trevor then tells Weston that he has nothing left in life and should prepare for his death. Weston then summons the last of his will and tries threats, despite only having minutes left to live. Trevor arrives at the cliff and informs Weston that they have enough time left for some "one-on-one time".

A few hours later, around 20:00, Michael arrives and asks Trevor if they are "good," with Trevor happily agreeing. Michael lights up a cigarette, but thinks better of it and throws it off the cliff. Franklin then arrives before Trevor opens the trunk of the Tornado to reveal a badly bleeding, half-naked, tied up and gagged Weston. Franklin taunts the billionaire about his choice of ending, ("My bad, homie. I picked C. Ain't that a bitch?"). Michael taunts Weston about the two "great evils" of American capitalism that he has performed (betraying everyone he has ever known, as well as Haines, all the major antagonists, Don Percival and his own company) because in Michael's words, Weston thought he was "big enough and bad enough" to not play by the rules and walk offshore alone as a free man. Michael states that neither he, Franklin or Trevor would ever do such a thing, and declares that Weston's view on the matter is "keep your problems the fuck out of America." Michael, Trevor and Franklin mockingly bid Weston farewell and "thank" him for the all of his advice before Michael closes the trunk and says, "You know, Devin, the way I see it, and hey, I'm no intelligent businessman like you, but the way I see it, there's two great evils that bedevil American capitalism of the type that you practice. Number one is outsourcing. You paid a private company to do your dirty work for ya, and then you underpaid that company because you thought you were big enough and bad enough that you didn't have to play by the rules. Oh, number two. Off-shoring your profits. But we know your opinions on the matter Devin. Keep your problems the fuck out of America, huh? Hey, Devin... Goodbye my old friend. Thanks for all the advice.". The three protagonists push the Tornado with Weston in the trunk off a cliff and into the ocean below. The car then explodes shortly after impact with the shallow seabed, destroying both Weston and the car.

With Weston's death, the trio's loose ends have all been tied up. Trevor asks what they do now, with Michael responding that they are going to lay low for a while then get on with their lives. Trevor suggests they do so as friends, and Michael agrees, as "flawed, awful, totally uncomfortable, and poorly matched friends."

Trevor then states that they could then go back to the "capitalism they practice," planning even more heists with better funding, but Franklin wonders how their actions will be any better than Weston's. Michael jokes that hypocrisy is society's finest virtue. Trevor then tells Michael that his therapist has a lot to answer for, which Michael calmly agrees to, saying that even though he hates himself, he now knows how to say it; Trevor's response is to ask if he does not need therapy because he already knows how to say he hates Michael. Sensing another argument, Franklin backs away from the two and towards his bike, telling him that they "terrify him of middle age." Michael walks back towards his car, but not before announcing his official retirement to Trevor, saying, "I'll tell ya one thing T, I'm getting too old for this nonsense.". Franklin and Michael drive off as Trevor looks on, before he awkwardly walks to celebrate.

The next day, Trevor arrives at home in Sandy Shores to celebrate the victory of killing all of the enemies the three hate in the final mission. All they need to do is to complete a few.

Upon arrival, Trevor will storm in the front door, shocked to find his mother waiting inside. After an emotional conversation with her, she will say she has no insurance and is in pain, and that she needs Deludamol, to which Trevor will pick himself up from the floor and try to leave immediately so he can get her the drug. On his way out, she tells him to find a "truck load" of 1000mg doses for her. After the encounter ends, Trevor will stomp out of the trailer upset, and the mission Mrs. Phillips will end, allowing the player to search for the van passively.

A Deludamol Rumpo (which is a van, despite Mrs. Philips wanting a truck load) can always be found parked out front of every hospital and pharmacy. As the player enters the van, the mission Damaged Goods begins, and they will have to deliver the van back to the trailer. When the player returns, the cutscene will show that Trevor's mother has disappeared, to which he becomes upset, lays on the floor in a fetal position, and cries. This might imply he was hallucinating about his mother the whole time, due to her sudden appearance, where he will say "I didn't know they let you out.", and also her sudden disappearance. Ron also vanishes from the porch in between "Mrs. Phillips" and "Damaged Goods". Now Trevor can relax.

Meanwhile, Franklin is so excited to use his big score money to purchase properties. The first three properties are the hangar, the garage, and the docks. First, Franklin goes to the airport and purchases the hangar. From there, he finally had permission to get to the airport, since he was restricted from getting to all parts of the airport, including a way to learn to fly as well as getting any plane wanted from the airport. Franklin even becomes so excited to obtain a passenger small jet as well as flying a jumbo passenger jet at least once.

After purchasing the airport hangar, Franklin goes to the garage along Grove Street. This is where he will store his best cars and race cars inside for a race as well as other ones of the favorite as very important in completing everything needed. In addition to buying the garage, Franklin goes to Route 68 and purchases the Los Santos Customs property there to get free modification for his race cars and getaway ones to complete what he needs.

The last property Franklin purchases is the docks where he stores his boats and helicopters to get around places in water and air, especially around the beach. The docks are very important for side missions that involve water and some air.

After purchasing all of the properties, Franklin is ready to set off on his last side missions to complete what he needs from random events to strangers and freaks. Everyone also has to have fun in order to complete all they need, even though some of them have been completed on all of the weekends since they met each other the first time.

Michael also has to purchase several properties for his big score money since he got more money than his other two best friends does. Unlike Franklin, he does not want to purchase the hangar. However, he does purchase the garage, the docks, and the helipad. Michael is not good at flying planes, but he is good at flying helicopters. Everyone is also good at driving and sailing the boats around San Andreas though. Eventually, Michael purchases the properties and checks them out. However, there is still one more that wants to purchase a property.

Trevor already owns two airfields in Blaine County; one for aircraft storage and the other for both ground and the air missions involving drugs. However, he still has to purchase a garage and the docks. Once all of the wanted properties have been purchased, everyone can do whatever they want and needed in order to complete the needs.

The plan is after all of the needs are done, they believe a UFO is coming as well as meeting the last one with a 100% shirt for completing everything 100%. Even after all of the main missions are finished, everyone is still not at 100% completion yet.

All that is needed is to complete several stranger and freaks side missions which allows everyone to purchase more properties and upgrade their important things in order to get to the endpoint of raging all over San Andreas and celebrating.

Everyone has their own goals at the very end. Franklin goes to stay in Los Santos and keep both his Vinewood and his original house in which his aunts live. He even wants to take Grove Street back and take back the iconic house which is owned by one of the Ballas dealers that Franklin and Trevor encountered before the ambush and even used to be owned by a legendary Grove Street gang member in the 1990s. Franklin even wants to take down all of the cops and attempt to make San Andreas a new country before spreading to the surrounding states and so on until all of the states are taken over by all three leaders.

Michael and Trevor also want to do the same thing as Franklin except they plan on alternating in both living in San Andreas and in North Yankton. Michael also helps take over non-gang controlled territories across Los Santos while Trevor takes over Blaine County as a whole, eventually wiping out all of the biker gangs against him such as The Lost MC. Then, the three can team up across southern San Andreas before taking the north.

Gener Guzman

However, this is only a plan of what would happen after the three completes to only 100% and how the three can complete up to 110%. However, there are still side missions and several tasks that need to be done. Over half of these tasks have been already completed in which the main missions were responsible for most of them. Only a small portion of tasks across several weeks and months need to be completed though.

Now in the near future, the three plans on beginning their strangers and freaks side missions first thing. Unlike random events, strangers and freaks are automatically located on the map since the stranger either already knows the three or the three knows the freaks which does help locate the strangers and freaks on their map.

After the big plan, the three then purchase or steal vehicles and place them in their new properties. Last, they all go home and sleep for the night.

Chapter 14

Throughout all weekends and mission breaks, all three players completed some portions of side missions and random events. Random events are events that are randomly encountered, in which the players are wanting to solve or help others. Some events involve saving or helping but others involve killing enemies. However, some random events are completed that result in heist selections while others are incomplete. Fourteen random events are required for completion.

Other than the random events, strangers and freaks are one of the other required tasks but only for Franklin. Since the mandatory side mission at the start, here are some highlights.

Franklin meets with Tonya again in front of the liquor store. He tells her she's looking terrible and she begins insulting him. Tonya insinuates Franklin's "gone all Vinewood" because he no longer smokes crack and hangs out in the 'hood. While berating him, she segues into pleading with him again for his help, and again, Franklin reluctantly agrees to help.

After completing the side mission, Tonya sends Franklin a text asking him to call her so she can elaborate on her situation.

She tells him that JB has gone AWOL and that there are some unnamed people who might hurt him. She says that JB is "in deep" and that these people are calling all the time and might "cut" JB.

She lays a guilt trip on Franklin that she will starve if he does not help her and JB out by towing another car.

Gener Guzman

After collecting the Tow Truck from LSPD Auto Impound in Davis the dispatcher will call advising of a code 10-33. Franklin responds to the call.

A blue dot will appear on the map signifying the location of the stalled car that needs a tow. The car is stranded on the train tracks that run across Chum Street on Elysian Island. As Franklin approaches, a red dot will appear denoting the Freight Train on the train tracks heading towards the crossing. He removes the stranded car from the tracks before the train arrives.

He allows the car's driver to enter the tow truck and then tow it carefully to Glass Heroes Auto Repairs just off of Power Street in Strawberry (a yellow dot and path will appear to assist. Once at the repair shop, Franklin drives it onto the spot and detaches the vehicle.

Franklin receives a text from Tonya and calls her to hear her elaborate. She claims that she and JB have gone clean, but that JB is feeling sick because of it. This begins another work. Too sick to work, so she asks Franklin to help her tow another car. Yet again, Franklin reluctantly agrees. From there, he works for Tonya to continue completing the side missions.

Tonya is back in front of the liquor store in Strawberry when Franklin rolls up. Franklin is disappointed in her because she still looks and acts like a habitual crack user despite having told him she and JB quit. This is the last side mission for Tonya.

She gets defensive, but Franklin has exhausted his patience and gets fed up. He then tells her what he already knows: she needs him to tow one last car. After completing the last mission, Franklin is done for one set and now moves onto the next set in another location.

Franklin approaches Barry at a store front on Sinner Street in Textile City and Barry hits him with the marijuana legalization sales pitch. Franklin likes the idea of smoking weed, but thinks all of Barry's political rhetoric sounds 'kind of bullshit'.

Barry offers him a drag on a joint and Franklin takes him up without hesitation. However, because Franklin is already a habitual pot smoker, he does not have vivid hallucinations like the ones Michael and Trevor have. In fact, Franklin tells Barry that the weed is garbage before crushing the joint beneath his shoe.

Barry then finagles Franklin into searching the city for vehicles containing weed stashes that need to be delivered to Barry's apartment to supply the 'Smoke-in' Barry has arranged at City Hall. Franklin then leaves, although if he waits around near Barry long enough, a 1-star wanted level will be received and Officer Jernigan and another female officer will arrive on the scene in a Police Cruiser.

After Franklin leaves, he'll receive a text message from Barry that reveals the locations of the stash vehicles. The areas in which the vehicles can be located will show as large light green circles on the world map and mini-map.

There are two vehicles to procure, and each has its own mission segment. These segments are considered side missions that may be completed during the work week.

Franklin goes to the lumberyard on El Rancho Boulevard in Murrieta Heights in East Los Santos, designated on the map by a light green circle. He locates the truck and calls Barry who will ask Franklin to deliver it to his apartment.

Franklin loses his wanted level and drives the truck to Barry's apartment in Vespucci. He drops it off in the alleyway behind the apartment complex.

For the next segment, Franklin goes to Rogers Salvage and Scrap yard just off Alta Street in La Puerta on the westside of Los Santos, designated on the map by a light green circle. He locates the car and starts it up.

Franklin discovers that the car is a "hoopty" and after attempting to get it started without success, Franklin will call Barry. He suggests that they give up on the vehicle, but Barry protests and insists the vehicle is needed. He tasks Franklin with finding a way to move it.

Near the entrance to the scrapyard is a tow truck. Franklin uses the tow truck to hitch the car and drive it to Barry's apartment. Again, the vehicle must be left in the alleyway behind the apartment complex. Once this is done, the segment passes, and the next one is going to begin.

For the last segment, Franklin goes to the City Hall on Occupation Avenue. He climbs the steps. It won't take long to discover that there is or was no smoke-in.

Franklin calls Barry. Barry seems very sketchy and it becomes clear that after Franklin dropped off the stash, Barry and his cohorts got so high they forgot about the smoke-in.

Once Franklin leaves the area, the second strangers and freaks set is complete, plus the weekend to spend time with. Each set of missions should be completed in a week. Beginning on Monday, Franklin drives around until he locates a new set to complete for the week.

Franklin meets a paparazzi named Beverly hiding in the middle of some bushes in West Vinewood. Beverly at first mistakes Franklin with PG Jackson and takes some photos of him. When Beverly realizes his mistake, he asks for Franklin's help to take some pictures of the actress Miranda Cowan using drugs in her Stretch. Franklin reluctantly agrees to help Beverly when he offers to pay Franklin for his work. Miranda will exit the building nearby in her limousine and the chase will begin. Franklin needs to drive very close to the limo so Beverly can be able to snap some photos of the actress. After some time, a rival paparazzo appears, Beverly will ask Franklin to chase the paparazzo and drive near him so he can hit the paparazzo off the bike. After the rival has been knocked out, Franklin drives Beverly to the new destination and the mission will be complete. Shortly from there, Franklin begins another mission.

Franklin approaches Beverly near Downtown Los Santos. Beverly has heard that Poppy Mitchell is engaging in anal sex with one of her co-stars in the Gentry Manor Hotel, and wants to catch it on video. Beverly leads Franklin through a nearby hotel, then gives Franklin a camera. Franklin discovers Poppy engaged in the sex act and proceeds to record the encounter from a nearby location, hidden. Soon, Poppy and her partner Justin spot Franklin. Franklin and Beverly flee, followed closely by Poppy, Justin and the security guard. Franklin hops in Beverly's car, and a car chase ensues with Poppy in her blue Rapid GT and Justin and the security guard each in a Landstalker. While Beverly drives, he demands that Franklin continue to tape the pursuing Poppy. Franklin must keep the camera centered around the actress' face until the chase ends when Poppy crashes her car as she chases them through the Alta Construction Site.

In West Vinewood, Franklin finds Beverly lurking in a dumpster near a steakhouse. Beverly emerges from the dumpster and tells Franklin that he has recently snagged a reality show. Beverly asks Franklin's help in getting yet more celebrity pictures, to which Franklin reluctantly agrees. Beverly states he will send the necessary information to Franklin's phone.

Franklin then needs to wait some time until Beverly sends a message with the location of the celebrities that Franklin needs to photograph. One location will be at Downtown Vinewood and the other will be in Mirror Park. The instructions are the entire mission this time.

Franklin enters a marked area in Downtown Vinewood. Upon entering the area and a call from Beverly, Franklin sees a sports car rush past with police cars in hot pursuit. Beverly calls Franklin, who informs him that the police are chasing actress Poppy Mitchell, who is supposedly drunk. Beverly asks Franklin to follow the chase and to get a good picture of her. The chase takes place through Vinewood Hills and Downtown Los Santos before Mitchell crashes near Los Santos Police Headquarters. Mitchell staggers from her wrecked car, at which point she is approached and arrested by the pursuing officers who notice it's her and refer to her video. Poppy offers to do anything to get off the DUI charge. Franklin takes a picture of Mitchell with his phone, then sends the picture to Beverly. Last, Franklin leaves the scene quickly.

Next, Franklin enters the marked area in Mirror Park. Franklin calls Beverly who informs him that English royal Princess Georgina is at the moment purchasing marijuana from a street dealer. Beverly tells Franklin to get a picture of the deal after meeting the contact. Franklin meets Beverly's contact at the nearby Chico's Hypermarket. The contact informs Franklin that the drug deal is taking place in the alley behind the market. Additionally, the contact advises Franklin that the princess has heavy security, so Franklin should take the picture from the market's roof.

At this point, Franklin can approach the mission in a variety of different ways. However, if he chooses to use the roof as the vantage point, there is a dumpster on the market's right to use to reach the point. Regardless, Franklin takes the picture and sends it to Beverly. Once he has left the scene (and lost the security if caught), the mission ends.

After taking pictures of Poppy Mitchell and Princess Georgina, Franklin meets Beverly in front of The Generic Hotel in West Vinewood to give him the photos and collect his money ($251). However, Beverly is already filming his reality show and is no longer interested in the photos. Franklin gets angry, but Beverly simply tries to shoo Franklin away so Beverly can continue making his show. After that, Franklin has the choice to kill or spare but decides to kill at first. Once Beverly is injured enough, Franklin's decision changes, leaving Beverly spared.

Grand Theft Auto V

While traveling through Vinewood Hills, Franklin comes across a barking dog. Franklin is somehow capable of understanding the dog and follows the animal along a dirt path to where Dom is hanging by the lines of his parachute from the branches of a tree overlooking the Sisyphus Theater. Franklin helps Dom out of the tree, then tells the adrenaline junkie how his dog led him to the scene.

Dom says he has no dog. When Franklin looks around, the dog is gone. In the meantime, Dom has called his helicopter pilot to come retrieve him and now Franklin. With a bit of prodding, Franklin agrees to go parachuting with Dom.

The pilot flies Franklin and Dom to a spot near Mount Chiliad. The two parachute down to the peak of the mountain. From there, Dom challenges Franklin to a race down the mountain on Scorchers bikes. Once the race is over (regardless of whether Franklin wins or loses), Dom says he and Franklin should engage in more escapades.

After completing the mission, a series of 13 Parachute Jumps will unlock across the state. Although they do not need to be completed right away, they are required for 100% completion and will also need to be done before Dom's mission strand can be completed. Throughout this set of days, the parachute jumps are not only completed by Franklin but also Michael and Trevor.

Franklin meets Dom at the Los Santos International Airport. After a brief cutscene, the two mount Blazer quads and drive onto the airport's tarmac. Franklin follows Dom up the ramp of a rolling cargo plane. Once both are inside, the plane takes off.

After a brief dialogue sequence, the player regains control of Franklin still on the Blazer in the plane's cargo hold. Franklin and Dom drive out of the plane and engage in aerial acrobatics using the quads. Franklin can abandon the quad at any time. Assuming he survives the jump, he meets Dom on the southwestern shore of the Alamo Sea. After another brief cutscene, Dom takes off on a Seashark and the mission ends. Franklin then takes a break before the next mission.

Franklin meets Dom on the roof of the Maze Bank Tower in Downtown Los Santos. Dom convinces Franklin to take part in another stunt. After Franklin dons a jumpsuit, the two leap from the Tower. Franklin and Dom navigate through the city and land on the back of a Flatbed traveling along Power Street. Dom and his driver drop off Franklin at a repair shop on Elgin Avenue. Dom asks Franklin to meet him at the Land Act Dam for one more jump. After that, Dom leaves and the mission ends. Although a parachute jump trigger is located at the base of the tower, it cannot be used to reach Dom.

Along the shore of the Land Act Reservoir in the Tataviam Mountains, Franklin meets the same dog he discovered in Risk Assessment. Following the dog's guidance, Franklin heads to the Land Act Dam. There, he sees Dom preparing to jump from the dam without a parachute. After psyching himself up and taunting Franklin about his doubts, Dom jumps and, predictably, dies on impact. At this point, the player can complete the mission simply by walking away. The player can also complete the mission by jumping from the dam (there is a stairway to the left of where Dom jumped) and parachuting down to the river below, completing the strand.

After collecting all fifty of the letter scraps and discovering the identity of the assassin of Leonora Johnson, Franklin goes to Peter Dreyfuss' house in Vinewood Hills to confront him. When Franklin arrives at the house, Dreyfuss is meditating in the backyard, he thinks that Franklin has come to perform some sexual favors for him, but once Franklin reveals that he knows about Dreyfuss' secret, he panics and tries to run away. Franklin attempts to kill, but when the target runs away, the decision to spare rather than kill grows until he runs far enough.

Grand Theft Auto V

The first race is presented to the player by Hao, during the Strangers and Freaks mission, Shift Work. After completing the mission, a new race will be unlocked by a text message from Hao and Franklin must continue to win the races in order to proceed to the next one. There are a total of five races in the series, and are only accessible between 20:00 and 05:00 hours. Earning a medal in each of the Hao Street Races counts as 5 of the compulsory 42 Hobbies and Pastimes to achieve 100% Completion. Now Franklin has to be able to start sleeping later for this task.

There is no entry fee for this race. It is two laps long and starts at Forum Drive in Chamberlain Hills against Hao and four other drivers. The reward for winning the race is $200. This race is triggered by meeting Hao for the first time in his Strangers and Freak mission and you must race him and four other racers.

Before the next few races, Franklin chooses the best sports cars to store in his garage. He even makes sure the Los Santos Customs property is purchased south of Blaine County, so that he can make customizations for free. These customizations help Franklin win in first place well ahead of the other racers but also has to consider the downsides like the risk for wanted level.

The next few races must take place every evening from Tuesday to Friday. With the first race on Monday completed for South Los Santos, there are four more races to go. The second is taking place starting in Downtown Vinewood on the north side but south of Franklin's house. The race takes place around Vinewood, Rockford Hills, and the two major beaches. After the 2nd race is complete, the third race takes place at the airport but is short and difficult to get around as the flow is slow. The fourth race is also short and fast, and the fifth race is in Vespucci Canals.

Meanwhile during the racing week, Franklin often spends time doing other tasks that are required for completion during the day. At the end, he returns to normal by sleeping early.

Gener Guzman

The next set of side missions or strand can be concurrent with the evening races. Franklin may first find a new job and boss. Mary-Ann is a high-stress exercise fanatic who is clearly hostile toward males in general. She belittles anyone who approaches her before challenging them to a triathlon-oriented race to prove herself.

Franklin approaches Mary-Ann while she is doing her vigorous pre-workout stretching and she promptly accuses him of staring at her ass. He tells her she's not his type, and she chides him by asking if he prefers a "stay-at-home cheerleader". She tells him she's preparing for a three-way, and after Franklin appears obviously confused, she explains that she means a triathlon. Franklin, not appreciating her insults, decides to challenge her. During the challenge, she continues spouting aggressive anti-male rhetoric.

Franklin has to swim across Paletto Bay, get on a bicycle and pedal the boardwalk along the shore, and then run to the top of a small hill overlooking the ocean, following the checkpoint-highlighted route. The way to complete the side mission depends on stamina but is most likely improved by the end of the main mission strand. During the bicycling segment of the race, Franklin comes to a broken portion of the boardwalk and goes very fast. In turn, this completes one of the 50 Stunt Jumps scattered over the map. It is one of the only jumps with a bicycle.

Franklin meets Omega outside his trailer in east Sandy Shores. He is searching his property for alien life forms. He scans Franklin and asks if he has seen any aliens and describes his own close encounter. The aliens named him "Omega" and they were about to abduct him when their spaceship crashed. He asks Franklin to collect all 50 Spaceship Parts that are scattered throughout San Andreas, after he shows a spaceship part on his phone. After collecting all 50 spaceship parts, the mission The Final Frontier is unlocked.

Grand Theft Auto V

Franklin meets Omega again inside his laboratory in a trailer park near the RON Alternates Wind Farm. He congratulates Franklin for collecting the spaceship parts and opens his garage to show Franklin his reconstructed invention with the last part. When Omega leaves the garage, Franklin can take the Space Docker, a special and unique vehicle to have. Also, this is the final strangers and freaks mission for Franklin to be completed, counting as completion. As with Michael and Trevor, their stranger and freaks missions are not required for completion.

Going in order of the completion checklist, some other tasks are required to be completed in order to continue and finish the required strangers and freaks missions. Speaking of why all of these missions are required, there are some missions that do not make progress directly. In other words, these missions do not count towards completion but are actually required to move onto the other missions that are required as well as counting towards completion. Some missions must be started after completing certain other tasks like parachute jumps, collecting all 50 letter scraps as well as 50 spaceship parts. Some fun tasks are done alongside the other main tasks before.

Throughout all the weekends, breaks, and other days where players do not have work, or the main missions, they do other tasks throughout. In fact, some strangers and freaks might have been completed throughout all weekends as well as some random events, in which they all occur without a plan. Minor tasks to reach completion actually began at the start of a career or before. Unlike a traditional system, this system of completion involves three players instead of one, but there has been an indirect completion system completed by three characters years before without much interaction. This time, the system has to involve interactions between the three players.

Not to forget, there may have been one or three lists for completion before all the players meet at some point during the main strand of missions. Once all three players already know each other, it is likely that the completion list has been merged and shared as one list. The list is not only for checking off completed tasks but also writing down notes about statistics of how many people each player kills, missions completed, scores for each game, distance and travel data, etc. Although this list has stats for an individual player, there has been other data in the past lists.

Before the list has been merged, the following tasks not listed as important or mentioned before are completed during free time. Some tasks of the original lists have been completed but then changed from required to not required while merging. Other tasks that are not completed yet may have originally been required but then changed so they are not required in the new version. The rest of the tasks, the majority of all, are to be completed as planned without major changes.

For example, Franklin already has a fun required task of learning to shoot better by using and passing all shooting range levels of bronze or better. The levels in the shooting range are the handguns (pistols), SMGs, assault rifles, shotguns, light machine guns, and heavy weapons. The set of tasks done by Michael are nine holes in golf, winning in tennis and darts, and other tasks shared with other players. Trevor seems responsible for the off-road racing while other fun tasks are shared off. Triathlons, sea races, flight school, and strip club private dance are the remaining tasks for all players to do, though all three characters complete one or more of the above.

Finally, all three players purchase at least five properties throughout their era. The next is for at least one player to purchase a vehicle from a website. Franklin walks and plays fetch with Chop the dog while him and the other two players completes the following: Booty call, service of a prostitute, store robbery, 25 under the bridge flights and stunt jumps, eight knife flights, and hanging out. Hanging out involves going to a bar, movies, and other tasks. Once these and other tasks are complete, including ones to unlock others, the trio basically gets 100% completion.

After reaching 100% completion, all three players in the trio get rewarded with a message. The message refers to doing a good job as a criminal, which considers this role as a career. UFOs appear at the top of Mount Chiliad and above Fort Zancudo as well as Sandy Shores. Franklin is rewarded with a 100% T-Shirt. Finally, a new strangers and freaks mission as “The Last One”, is the final mission for the namesake to eat an important plant to help further decide on what to do.

Franklin encounters a hunter in the Raton Canyon trying to hunt a sasquatch. After a conversation, he convinces Franklin to help him. After locating the beast, Franklin chases it down. After the sasquatch stops, Franklin shoots it, leading the creature to ask Franklin to shoot him again. Becoming suspicious, Franklin pulls off the sasquatch's head, which turns out to be a mask worn by a man in a costume. After being questioned by Franklin, the man explains that "role-playing dressed as a fantastical beast" is a fetish of his. The man then barks, in a similar manner to that of a dog. Franklin asks, "what the fuck was that?", to which the man replies, "what do you want it to be?". Franklin then chooses to attack the man closely without killing.

By the time the players are ready for their next job, they already completed most if not all of exploring Southern San Andreas. Most likely, Mount Chiliad is not explored until Franklin is done with completion with the last one mission. Franklin then views south from the mountain.

Once every piece of South San Andreas has been explored, Franklin returns back home by a long road trip. The whole last mission was just a road trip, heading to Mount Chiliad, using the map to do the last strangers and freaks, explore the top, and spend the rest of the day driving back home. At night, Franklin returns to bed while making this the last peaceful night.

The next morning, Franklin not only has to do the next few tasks not required but also the other two players all together. The ultimate reward comes beyond 100% completion. All regular peyote plants must be consumed alongside doing 100% completion. Beyond 100% completion, the last real mission has been completed, but the rare, golden peyote plants are not yet consumed. This is because they tend to be found in remote areas where almost nobody can find it, and that they only jump back and forth at different times. They tend to stay in their home location starting from 5:30-8:00, and that they must be found in order for one week. That means the last task is to collect these bonus plants to get rewarded, so one of the three players can become bigfoot. From there, dressing and playing as bigfoot is the ultimate reward that can become a method of choice.

Once the three players, with Franklin first testing the reward as a costume, wake up, they all plan on using past experiences made by similar players and do the same at home. Franklin wants to do the same methods from 1992 to take back South Los Santos. Michael wants to mess around the rest of Los Santos like the three Liberty City players did in 2008. Trevor also wants to use both of the two methods in order to make a second vacation of Blaine County more like an invasion.

Once the trio agrees to begin overthrowing their region out of the country, Franklin starts the day off with just calling Lamar to hang out. Lamar agrees, and Franklin drives slowly to the pick up location in Morningwood. There, Lamar complains about waiting for years or forever.

Without further notice, Franklin drives Lamar towards South Los Santos, where there are original plans for a normal hang out day. However, this day turns out to become more like a main mission than a fun day, where Franklin is now in charge of the upcoming event. Once Franklin and Lamar arrive in South Los Santos, they ignore all activities for hanging out and rather pass through the LTD gas station and the big garage, driving in Grove Street. At the circle, Franklin parks the white Buffalo car back into the garage where he and Lamar are about to repeat the job as the ambush of the drug deal weeks to months ago, but the main idea is retaking the hood back.

Peace in Los Santos ends when Franklin opens fire normally against a group of Ballas members, where Franklin and Lamar both shoot while Franklin dominates the work. While battle is ongoing, Franklin already makes certain moves to become invincible for two and a half hours, regain health of body and belongings, and regain ammo when they run out. This results in more Ballas gang members killed in a short amount of time. Eventually, Lamar gets injured while the LSPD responds to the violence along Grove Street as Franklin takes over towards the west.

At the end of Grove Street, Franklin returns to the garage and the gas station where he shoots the cops for the first time for a while, resulting in a level three wanted level. He enters the store near the gas station and not only robs but also takes over the entire store. By the time the store has been messed up, the cops enter inside, but Franklin fights them out of the way. Outside, he fights the cops throughout the city of Davis, which is the place where Grove Street is now, and circulates the entire city where many gang members are either killed or run away from the battle scene. The circulation ends when Franklin reaches the Davis station along Carson Ave.

Other areas in South Los Santos do not need to be taken back because they are already home to The Families. East Los Santos is mostly controlled by the Vagos gang, another enemy to The Families. Franklin begins to shoot the first group of Vagos followed by a couple more before they eventually flee away while Franklin continues to fight the cops around. Finally, nearly all of South and East Los Santos regions have been taken over, where Franklin continues to invade more areas of Los Santos, which circulate around the surrounding areas. Franklin goes around Vespucci Beach, La Puerta, areas north of the port, and ends in Mirror Park. After that, Franklin escapes by going inside the tunnel and returns back home for about the last few sleeps left.

However, many other regions in Los Santos have not been touched by chaos yet. Michael begins to change that when he gets ready to perform several robberies against landmarks, famous places, stores, etc. Just like a few years ago on the east, Michael plans to do the same as well.

Once Michael leaves his house in Rockford Hills, he goes in order and goes to Vespucci first. Some of the locations there have been taken over, so Del Perro is the next big location to take over. Acting like a fake police officer, Michael drives over the pedestrian bridges on the pier and runs over many surroundings, causing the LSPD to respond. Once the LSPD responds, the chase begins out of Del Perro once it is taken over. From there, many areas on the north side of Los Santos are about to be taken over, starting with Morningwood. Morningwood is home to one of the westernmost studios where some structures have been taken over. Property management is less important to make room for more taking over the land until reaching West Vinewood.

The next major region to take over is Vinewood. Michael enters Vinewood while being chased by both the LSPD and the NOOSE, resulting in the tourists and pedestrians to run away from the chase scene. Eventually, the walk of fame begins to get taken over with loose structures being run over by both Michael and the excessive cops chasing him. Once the scene reaches East Vinewood and Mirror Park, it retreats to downtown where the Maze Bank Tower is last.

Not to mention, there are few interiors for Michael to perform robberies, but a few have been made. Within these few interiors, Michael's special ability allows him to use pistols to kill enemies by mostly headshots, although alternative methods like carbine rifles and explosions have been used. Just like a couple years back, the shooting involves the interior being changed from a normal environment to a battlefield, where cops invade the building, misses most shots, and gets killed when Michael either kills massive amounts of enemies or uses RPG to blast many enemies out of the way. Sometimes, the scene continues into many metro stations though.

However, the ending of the battle takes place in Rockford Hills at home. This is where the rest of Michael's family are nervous about home not being a safe place like always since the cops are able to blow many covers within the house. Right when the night starts, Michael shoots enemies out of the bedroom, finds a place to escape, and returns back home for another battle.

However, some other areas of Los Santos are untouched by chaos, although the amount of areas totally affected has doubled since Franklin and Michael both completed their battles.

Trevor evolves to becoming a powerful player and is capable of overtaking many areas in South San Andreas. He plans to touch the rest of Los Santos and Blaine County with chaos as well as the way to control the resistance of the LSPD. With the feeling of power and ultimate plan to get the region under control, a big fight is coming up. Before something happens to the rest, some of the experiments can be tested first to see how horrible these are compared to a normal life.

Before everything happens, the other two players must do something else fun. Michael may not come up with other fun things than just simply leaving many streets down, but Franklin has another idea before everything begins. This might have happened at some point before.

Just after a period of vacation mode, Franklin explores the popular locations throughout Los Santos and makes sure no police officers are around. Once this is clear, he randomly acts as a black stranger, trying to scare off nearby pedestrians. He randomly finds a point to keep peace until the best time for action comes. Once this happens, he punches a random target, mostly girls, because attacking guys might cause fighting, which may come with low health. The first location to do such action is in Rockford Hills followed by Del Perro. Franklin also attacks randomly in downtown Los Santos and Vinewood. Every time such action occurs, the attention causes all of the crowd to flee from the scene, and some of the people may call the cops, leaving Franklin with a wanted level of one or sometimes, two. This prompts more time to escape instead of action.

Once all the random but weird actions have been done, about half of Los Santos has been affected by the recent chaos. However, that is not the whole story. Before Trevor does the rest of the job, he quickly grabs a motorcycle from Slab City and spends multiple days in Los Santos for more experiments. This experiment first involves circulating the Los Santos tram or train system with a motorcycle, just like before in another location. It takes about one or two days, backed up by only allowing half a day awake plus the rest sleeping compared to the other two players.

Trevor does some fun setups before attempting to officially take over, join, and overtake the map. The first such setup is tricking the passengers by starting in the Davis station and going back there in one lap. The lap involves mostly stopping at all stations, making passengers react to the chaos, thinking about a race, illegal driving, or shooting. These sounds cause passengers to either run away or call the cops. The system goes through downtown, Del Perro, Rockford Hills, Strawberry, the airport, and all of these back in reverse direction. It is then circulated already.

Finally, another player who may or may not talk might provide more setups in addition to Trevor. Either both or just Trevor selects public or commercial vehicles of all types to be taken to Sandy Shores Airfield or a scrapyard where they are both crushed and explored at the end.

Once all of these experiments have been made, they are planned to happen again in public places as soon as the map is ruled by the trio. The final plan for Trevor is to take over the dry side first, which is the eastern half of Blaine County. This is where Trevor mostly resides right now and is planned to become the new headquarters soon. The west side of Blaine County, which includes Fort Zancudo, is next followed by the rest of Los Santos. Power is very important in this task.

While Franklin and Michael repeat the same methods as the previous ones that result in big losses for reconstruction or patience, Trevor can almost use every cheat by phone number or certain moves. The nearest target for Trevor is the prison. Same experiments are conducted there, using cheats. Not to mention that all three players are capable of using cheats, but Franklin and Trevor have more powers due to the ability to use cheats by moving or possibly using appealing accessories or clothing to help understand or remember all the moves for a cheat to activate.

Once all important cheats are activated by Trevor, they are all conducted as a setup way to get the enemies a chance to respond. Once they do, Trevor uses his cheats to break into prison and fight off the first battle against the enemies. The battle then moves along US Route 13 north.

Rural areas in San Andreas are a little easy to take over as it can simply be reached with no fighting but also normally challenging due to other hazards. All of these hazards are bypassed with cheats, so Trevor easily takes over the dry side of Blaine County. He then climbs up Mount Chiliad using a super jump cheat, falls down towards Paleto Bay, and takes over the small town. This is easy because Trevor is used to fighting in Paleto Bay after gaining the ability during the Paleto Score bank robbery. Once Paleto Bay is taken, Trevor moves south along Route 1.

There is no major location Trevor takes over until Fort Zancudo. From there, he gains a wanted level of six, where the soldiers use their defense to kick Trevor out again. Trevor often keeps the invincibility cheat and fights off many soldiers, making this unbelievable for a military base to be overwhelmed by a one-man army power. This is because Trevor has the ability to stop many defensive officers and soldiers from entering Fort Zancudo by shooting down vehicles that try but explode. Once Trevor makes the enemies ready to give up, he leaves the base and moves.

Trevor uses even more cheats to get around the hills of Los Santos County, which serves as the rural side of Los Santos, to touch all the pieces there. The first piece of the county to take is the southeast corner of the map, which is just mostly empty, unpopular, and just a mountain. Trevor then fights the cops as he travels along areas north of Vinewood and Rockford Hills. He makes a turn and finishes off touching the rest of Los Santos except for the southern areas.

Not to be confused with South Los Santos, Trevor leads the battle scene into Los Santos International Airport and makes the crowd go away. The battle continues into the airfield part of the airport where Trevor steals a plane and crashes into the nearby Port of Los Santos. This is for signaling an attack and taking down many features like blowing cargo inside without actually damaging the outside. Trevor then has one more thing to do before the resistance gives up.

Almost the whole time since Franklin begins to take over Davis for The Families, a cheat makes Southern San Andreas mostly located under the very dark clouds, so that everyone there sees the night all the time. The trio then uses this weather with severe thunderstorms to make the fight more intense, discourage civilians and some enemies from getting out, and make even more attacks against all of the locations the trio hates. The three players and their gang win.

However, everyone now understands how to get San Andreas back to normal once again. The only way to do this is giving up the attempt to kill Trevor or his other friends. This is due to too many NOOSE and LSPD officers being killed by Trevor near the Los Santos City Hall. The reason being is that Trevor uses so many cheats to become invincible forever, upgrade weapons, so that explosions are made when shooting, and also gain explosive melee attacks as well.

As soon as Trevor quickly clears up the battlefield near the city hall, he spawns a Frogger helicopter and flies to a hidden location where the cops are less likely to be there. This is located at the north end of a hill in a rural Los Santos County portion. Once Trevor arrives at the hidden place, the location is still public enough for the cops to spot while the storm does not end yet. As Trevor spots an abandoned mineshaft ahead that is closed, he fights off the sheriff officers and the NOOSE officers as well. He also shoots down all police and NOOSE vehicles to clear up the scene. Finally, Trevor enters the tunnel but is surprised when NOOSE officers spot him escaping in the tunnel. These NOOSE officers are quickly killed, losing track of where Trevor goes.

By the time more cops and NOOSE officers arrive, they see other officers dead and clue of where Trevor is. The evidence comes when the tunnel door is broken and is most likely where Trevor is escaping. Because the tunnel is so complex, the cops begin feeling like giving up.

Meanwhile, Trevor takes different directions inside the mineshaft. He also has tools for mining in order to hide himself from everyone else. This is where he rests and sleeps overnight while the troops and enemies continue to search for Trevor. By this time, they cannot tell where Trevor is right now due to ongoing storms and similar sounds to explosions. At some point, the enemies hear at least one or more sounds similar to when Trevor is there, causing more enemies to assume where Trevor is. It turns out that the enemies are attracted to lightning strike spots, not the hidden cave Trevor makes to escape. Eventually, the officers begin the process to give up.

However, Trevor is not only the target to take down. Franklin and Michael also need to be either taken down or arrested. This goal is so difficult because the two players are still strong against the effort to stop them. Also, the LSPD and the San Andreas sheriffs may be seeing more people helping the chaos, not stopping it. This creates so much stress for enforcing the state.

Finally, the police and sheriff departments lose so many officers that they either end up hiring, drafting, or calling in the FIB and NOOSE to help stop violence but it does not work.

The next morning, the violent storm ends, and Trevor wakes up into daylight in the tunnel. He is now free from the cops and does not have a wanted level. Before moving out of the tunnel, he is planning to visit the first few locations for the day. The closest place to check out is the military base of Fort Zancudo. This is where the plan to spend most of the day happens. At the end of the day, Trevor plans on entering the airfield of the Los Santos airport without restrictions at all.

Once the plan is done, Trevor runs to the tunnel exit and sees a nice day, better than last night in the battle. Without cops to bother, he goes to Fort Zancudo and explores the whole base all morning. From there, he checks out all the soldiers taking off and landing with their jets.

In the middle of the day, Trevor enters the tower and explores the building. The building contains a front desk, security checkpoint, and classrooms for training. Trevor goes upstairs to the top and views the whole base from the window. He also sees more data and controls about the base, which turns out to be the air traffic control. Throughout the trip, no soldiers are enemies this time as they all learn their lesson not to stop powerful criminals. Everyone in San Andreas has to deal with potential actions possible by the three powerful criminals at some point as there is almost no way to finally take away power. Finally, Trevor is done exploring the military base.

In the afternoon, Trevor finds or spawns a small passenger plane called the Shamel. The Shamel then begins to take off from east to west on the military runway with no restrictions and turns around towards the north. Trevor flies the plane and circles around Mount Chiliad before finding a straight line towards Los Santos International Airport. The straight line begins from the border between Blaine County and Los Santos County, and Trevor uses his vision to find it. The plane reduces the engine thrust to prepare for landing and goes over the Vinewood sign as well as the rest of Vinewood. Trevor descends the plane over downtown, Little Seoul, and a little bit of the Vespucci neighborhood. Then, he lands the plane at the airport without restrictions for the first time ever and taxis to the gate, depending on the airline of the given plane being flown.

Trevor then spawns a Rhino tank and closely touches the plane with the cannon. Even a very small tap of a light tank cannon causes the whole plane to explode, meaning that aircraft in general may explode by simply tapping them with a thin tank cannon. Trevor then crushes small baggage carts and pushback trucks until they explode. He then drives to Escalera rental car place after some passengers are surprised to see a tank through the airport. Trevor then pretends to go on vacation, exiting the airport, using the rental shuttle bus, and exploding vehicles at the place.

After crushing and exploding a few vehicles at Escalera Rent-A-Car facility, firefighters respond, and Trevor moves out of the airport region to go to Vanilla Unicorn. Last, he rests.

Trevor gets up the next morning and plans on spending vacation time both exploring and scaring more civilians in horror. The morning plan is to simply find a bank to mess around with without having to rob them, as bank robberies are now easier to perform than before. The afternoon can be spent shooting at a restaurant and then targeting the next tourist destination, Vinewood. This is where the plan is to turn a peaceful time into chaos plus ending a day with a weird dinner.

Once the plan is done, Trevor continues to wait a few hours into the morning before and finds a bank to go inside of. For the rest of the morning, he finds a bank that can be entered and explores all interiors, which is mostly Fleeca banks. While exploring, he performs a random shot or punch against something or someone, but the cops are not called for this yet. It is revealed that the police respond to all calls but refuse to go after Trevor or his friends to prevent death for most officers. This is evidence that Southern San Andreas seems to become its own country.

Once all the banks have been entered and attacked, Trevor goes somewhere in the middle of the day, drives around, and lets the country avoid violence for a while. This is because a new country needs to get used to its culture, which is known for not having as much freedom as the rest of America. Instead, the main idea is dealing with just random violence or surprises.

The next destination to get hit is going to Vinewood. Trevor returns to Vinewood with the tank and notices the announcements for a tour bus to leave soon. The reaction is that he gets out of the tank and waits for the best time to end peace. By simply getting into the driver's seat in the tour bus, the passengers are tricked into a normal tour, but Trevor gets out, pushes the bus against the Oriental Theater in the back, and crushes until the explosion, which could become a chain.

Because the Pacific Standard Bank has been or is planned to be robbed soon, Trevor then ends the day right there and finds a dinner somewhere else. There are not many fun tasks to do but the visit to the police station near downtown. Trevor makes sure the LSPD officers are good and behaved instead of trying to take the big risk of starting another war again. Last, he rests.

On the third day of a weird vacation, Trevor returns outside for another weird action. The next place to get hit are both downtown and Rockford Hills. However, there are two players to consider for today. Franklin plans on going to both Rockford Hills and Vinewood to make some random moves while Michael plans on pretending to stop some random, innocent people.

All three players meet up and do their own actions. Franklin begins the day in Rockford Hills and does not have to worry about the LSPD anymore. Instead, he chooses a random person to punch or kill and does so. This results in the crowd running away. Michael plays a role when he makes random arrests and kills onto innocent people, making the three-men government more cruel than before. Trevor continues his journey to explode multiple stores within the target area.

The next morning, all three players make their own plans to do something. Franklin plans the whole morning making random attacks on enemy gangs when they still exist. Michael plans for the cruel actions along the two major beaches and the rest of Los Santos. Trevor plans on doing the same for the rest of the county and Blaine County as well. This day is where most of the area in Southern San Andreas must experience random violence, surprises, and way more crimes.

Franklin first exits his house and drives towards South Los Santos to begin the day with. This is where he waits and acts on the way to the area. In South Los Santos, he is responsible for keeping enemy gangs out of the new country and prompting them to avoid being enemies.

Michael spends a few hours at home before moving out and driving around nearby areas. Of course, one of the major locations nearby is the university. Michael points out people in a random way, which includes students and other workers, and takes them away, mostly ending up being killed. Michael also goes to the nearby golf course and messes around there, targeting both people and the structure nearby. After that, he explores the rest of Los Santos and becomes a lot crazy at the end. During the last stage of action, Michael often goes to a rooftop to find a place to assassinate random people. He hides and snipes random targets where nobody knows the cause.

However, Trevor is the one doing most of the big actions out there. He explores the rest of Southern San Andreas, mostly rural, and finds interesting actions to perform. The first major target in this region is Paleto Bay. Then, he skips many remote areas and returns to Los Santos after covering the rest of the populated areas in rural areas, meaning a violent destruction.

The first major place in Los Santos as a return is the port. Trevor often steals both trucks and trailers from the port before pretending to be normal. Franklin mostly pretends to be a good trucker before abandoning or destroying the truck for good. Trevor does most of the job by doing multiple experiments. Just like passenger vehicles, trucks, mostly in the port, are often taken to a best location to scrap such as a scrapyard or even a major intersection. This is because a tank is spawned by Trevor and is used to crush to explode the trucks, leaving many damaged goods.

Finally, Trevor becomes a major worker the next day where he gets into the process for a trip back home. Basically, he returns the tank to an airport parking lot, jumps into one of the two other car rental facilities, and pretends to leave. He steals or takes an airport bus, pretends to drop passengers off, and makes another scene. He returns to the tank and blockades the road with both tank and bus before crushing and exploding the bus as well as making a traffic chain reaction.

At last, Franklin joins the action when he becomes responsible for more explosions. He flies a big airplane and crashes into the I-2 Del Perro Freeway, blocking off most traffic.

The intended airplane crash is not the only way to make chain reactions. All three players work their way out to major intersections or interchanges before the chain reaction. At this point, the only chain reactions that happened are the Del Perro Freeway, the arrivals level at Los Santos International Airport, and possibly the Vinewood Walk of Fame. The rest of the chain reactions are planned to take place in more major areas such as congested freeways and major roads.

In order to scare the whole country and keep freedom out, the three players hire several workers to build various scenes and props in order to mess around the whole map. In addition to just owning a whole country, the players must take action upon having everyone listen to them and prepare for a random action to come. Of course, there must be multiple ways for outsiders to enter the independent state of San Andreas, with the most popular way being the airport.

As a result, the three players and their staff work to make scenes to allow visitors to come close to their destination without touching it. One such method is by blocking off many streets and roads leading to Los Santos International Airport, but San Andreas residents are welcome to flee for now. There are a few levels to this before visitors are kicked out completely at the end.

The next layer to cover are both blocking hotel doors with fires and removing rental cars from their lot. The layer after that is making a chain reaction explosion in the arrivals level so as to prevent help from the outside world, thus preventing war. The next and final layer to act is blocking off the landing runways by the barriers, so the plane gets surprised before the crash. As for the other airports and borders, everyone who supports the three players has an easy time watching where the visitors are and shooting them down. This also includes road borders as well.

Not to mention, the ports in the state have been least touched. This begins to change as action has been taken to block off both passengers, cargo, and supplies from arriving there.

Gener Guzman

After trying to prevent visitors from coming to the state, the three players then find some way to mess around even more. They also can get more workers to build temporary props for the purpose of messing around normal traffic. Props may also be used to perform multiple actions that used to be impossible in normal conditions. Additionally, the players will be able to show off their full power everywhere soon to see how bad residents nearby feel, being so scared to live.

First off, the side streets from major to minor are the ones to get hit. Some interiors may also get hit as well. Nearby structures can also be destroyed. This is because the ability to use all the cheats, spawn, and obtain unlimited skills allows more explosive attacks. The weather may or may not be affected by the cheat, but it tends to be severe during major battles or violence.

Before the three players and some supporters do something, they get ready and highlight what areas in South San Andreas to get hit first. Of course, the order seems very endless now.

Once the three players as a trio manage to get their state under control, they can get the whole state to become empty. With an empty state, the trio can restart and pretend almost nothing happens. Creative ways to restart surviving involves customizing the map and changing it.

The first step to this project involves Franklin going to Los Santos International Airport to steal or take a big airplane. The airline is random but often determines which terminals to start the journey at. By sunrise, Franklin already has the airplane placed at a gate, pretending to have passengers enter. During the boarding process, he explores the gate and the terminal exterior near it. He also explores the front of the airport to wave a bye to a normal traffic density before things change later on. Once two hours pass after sunrise, Franklin begins departure by backing up.

The plane backs up and makes its way to the runway. There are three runways, one is for takeoff where planes take off towards the east located near the terminals. The runway just south of it is for landing and is located near the hangars and the isolated terminal, part of terminal four. The last runway is where small planes land to the southwest and takeoff in either direction, which depends on the weather. Franklin chooses the normal runway for a big airplane.

Original destinations for the original flight depend on the airline. However, no matter the airline, the airplane is always diverted towards the plane wreckage area located near Route 13 by Sandy Shores. Density for the general public in San Andreas remains normal until the airplane crashes into the wreckage area, where the other planes have either been wrecked or scrapped. As the crash is not an accident, Franklin remains the only survivor thanks to his invincibility cheat while the remaining passengers are dead. The plane then joins the wreckage along with others.

Meanwhile, Franklin spends the rest of the day exploring the plane wreckage area, also known as a scrapyard, and explores the whole yard in general. Last, he spends the night there.

The next morning, the state of San Andreas had an overall public density lower than normal but only in the south. Northern San Andreas remains completely untouched by all the events back in the south as the players are either not interested or unable to make the chaos into the north. The plan for Franklin is to call the others to find a meeting place. Most likely, the new meeting place is in the new capital of an established new country in Los Santos, specifically the city hall.

After sunrise, Franklin and some of his friends go to the beach. Two of the boys, Franklin and Lamar, discover a conch shell on the beach, and Lamar realizes it could be used as a horn to summon the other boys like a cell phone, although the cell phone is still a device to call the others. Once assembled, the boys set about electing a leader and devising a way to be rescued. They choose Franklin as their leader, and Franklin appoints another boy, Trevor, to be in charge of the boys who will hunt food for the entire group. The whole meeting takes place in Los Santos City Hall while the general public in San Andreas are empty for the first time ever, with nobody around plus the first time no traffic can be seen in every street, even the former busiest freeways.

Franklin, Trevor, and another boy, Michael, set off on an expedition to explore the island, which is possibly most of Southern San Andreas. When they return, Franklin declares that they must light a signal fire to attract the attention of passing ships. The boys succeed in igniting some dead wood by focusing sunlight through the lenses of Michael's eyeglasses. However, the boys pay more attention to playing than to monitoring the fire, and the flames quickly engulf the forest. A large swath of dead wood burns out of control, and one of the youngest boys in the group disappears, presumably having burned to death. This whole event takes place where fire spreads from somewhere northeast of Alamo Sea. Passing ships now means enemy ships.

At first, the boys enjoy their life without grown-ups and spend much of their time splashing in the water and playing games. Franklin, however, complains that they should be maintaining the signal fire and building huts for shelter. The hunters fail in their attempt to catch a wild pig, but their leader, Trevor, becomes increasingly preoccupied with the act of hunting.

When a ship passes by on the horizon one day, Franklin and Michael notice, to their horror, that the signal fire—which had been the hunters' responsibility to maintain—has burned out. Furious, Franklin accosts Trevor, but the hunter has just returned with his first kill, and all the hunters seem gripped with a strange frenzy, reenacting the chase in a kind of wild dance. Michael criticizes Trevor, who pretends to hit Michael across the face. Franklin blows the conch shell as a phone and reprimands the boys in a speech intended to restore order. At the meeting, it quickly becomes clear that some of the boys have started to become afraid. The littlest boys, known as “littluns,” have been troubled by nightmares from the beginning, and more and more boys now believe that there is some sort of beast or monster lurking on the island. The older boys try to convince the others at the meeting to think rationally, asking where such a monster could possibly hide during the day. One of the littluns suggests that it hides under the sea, a proposition that terrifies the entire group. There seems to be no reason why enemy ships can get attracted.

Not long after the meeting, some military planes engage in a threat high above the state without touching San Andreas. The boys, asleep below, do not notice the flashing lights and explosions in the clouds. A parachutist drifts to earth on the signal-fire mountain, dead. The twin boys, responsible for watching the fire at night, are asleep and do not see the parachutist land. When the twins wake up, they see the enormous silhouette of his parachute and hear the strange flapping noises it makes. Thinking the island beast is at hand, they rush back to the camp in terror and report that the beast has attacked them.

The boys organize a hunting expedition to search for the monster. Trevor and Franklin, who are increasingly at odds, travel up the mountain. They see the silhouette of the parachute from a distance and think that it looks like a huge, deformed ape. The group holds a meeting at which Trevor and Franklin tell the others of the sighting. Trevor says that Franklin is a coward and that he should be removed from office, but the other boys refuse to vote Franklin out of power. Trevor angrily runs away down the beach, calling all the hunters to join him. Franklin rallies the remaining boys to build a new signal fire, this time on the beach rather than on the mountain. They obey, but before they have finished the task, most of them have slipped away to join Trevor. However, the original idea is that the three boys are all leaders, not just one. This is somehow when the three leaders cannot agree upon which one out of three is the main leader.

Gener Guzman

Trevor declares himself the leader of the new tribe of hunters and organizes a hunt and a violent, ritual slaughter of a sow to solemnize the occasion. The hunters then decapitate the sow and place its head on a sharpened stake in the jungle as an offering to the beast. Later, encountering the bloody, fly-covered head, Michael has a terrible vision, during which it seems to him that the head is speaking. The voice, which he imagines as belonging to the Lord of the Flies, says that Michael will never escape him, for he exists within all men. Michael faints. When he wakes up, he goes to the mountain, where he sees the dead parachutist. Understanding then that the beast does not exist externally but rather within each individual boy, Michael travels to the beach to tell the others what he has seen. But the others are in the midst of a chaotic revelry—even Franklin and Michael have joined Trevor's feast—and when they see Michael's shadowy figure emerge from the jungle, they fall upon him and think about killing. The killings of Michael and Trevor are false but are visualized with the other two options for Franklin.

After some argument of who is going to be leader, the trio now finally agrees to keep the tradition of having three leaders instead of one, although Franklin seems to slightly qualify as a good leader. Trevor qualifies as a leader of both the hunters group and his own army due to being a powerful boy with multiple cheat abilities. Michael qualifies as a retired leader with the ability to tell the other two leaders to learn from the past. This agreement settles down the trio again.

Without this agreement either now or before, Franklin could have either chosen the first, the second way, or both. The third way choice was made as the only mission to let everyone in the trio survive. The fourth way would have involved killing the other two players at a time.

The first way was considered killing Trevor, where Franklin imagines chasing Trevor and letting him die in a fire. Franklin also could have killed Michael in a power plant the second way.

After an agreement and thoughts during sleep, Franklin wakes up the next morning and plans on restarting the career over and over again. This time, everything starts in a modern way before the transition to an old way. The ultimate plan involves looping around like an empty day and flying around before landing at the airport. Once this is done, the process of arrivals is to be completed followed by another agreement plan in Los Santos City Hall of what to do next with roleplay.

Again, the three players return to the airport and fly out of San Andreas for a while. This is either happening for a few days out of town or just flying around before returning. Either way, the trio returns to the airport and lands with a big airplane as a welcome back to San Andreas. As they go on their way to the next meeting, they welcome themselves with just a vehicle and empty surroundings, meaning nobody around. This is also the first time the general public in an area is open to roleplay. The players want to create their own society without relying on the old ones as the vast majority of the population either left Southern San Andreas or hid at home. The players head to the city hall and hold a meeting just outside the building as the outside is really quiet.

After the meeting, the players decide to tour the entire region without crowds and traffic to see. They begin in just Los Santos and from Franklin's house in Vinewood Hills. Now each of the three players take charge of the regions to explore while the whole place is mostly empty.

Franklin is in charge of exploring East Los Santos and other regions in the eastern half of Los Santos. This includes the eastern half of Vinewood at first and then down in Mirror Park. As a historical location, Mirror Park is believed to become a place where a group of settlers from up the floating island a long time ago lives. Franklin continues to explore towards the docks as well.

Michael is in charge of exploring the western half of Los Santos, beginning at his normal mansion in Rockford Hills. He notices how empty the famous locations in Rockford Hills are now compared to a few weeks ago. This means mostly empty streets and a best place for some roleplaying. Michael also explores significant locations in the two major Los Santos beaches and cannot believe how empty they are right now. Just south of the beaches is La Puerta plus Maze Bank Stadium. South Los Santos has been explored by Franklin and so does the eastern half of downtown. Michael takes a journey in most of downtown Los Santos and ends at the airport.

The last player to cover is Trevor, where he begins the empty journey in Sandy Shores. Northern Los Santos County and Blaine County have the lowest population density in the region, so Trevor is used to the low crowds and traffic there. The only difference is that almost nobody is present in these regions as even the least populated areas have at least one person or vehicle nearby. This makes wildlife in the middle of the state of San Andreas much bigger than before, so the wild animals can cross the streets of most of the streets and roads throughout the region.

Once all the locations in the region have been explored by at least one player, the trio allows a small number of residents to go out and roleplay. This results in the public areas to go back to some sort of normal level but not quite yet. This is because the amount of people outside their homes are very limited, and less than a thousand people are allowed outside even still just to keep the public from being too crowded at normal levels. Once roleplaying is back again, the three players return to the wild and downgrade themselves for a more historic life by moving.
